VOL. XXIII. PORTLAND, OREGON: FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1883. NO. 7,06.

GENERAL NEWS.

Magnificent Fortune of One Hundred Million Dollars.

Preparations for the Presentation of the Passion Play.

Investigation of the Charges Against Senator Ferry, of Michigan.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible], Feb. 15.—A. McIlwrath, for several years in the government secret service in this city, states he is one of a dozen heirs who will shortly come into the possession of a fortune, estimated at $100,000,000, in England. He says: "For fifteen years I have been at work trying to bring this about, and recently, a cablegram indicates, the long desired end has been attained. The matter is still in the hands of the attorneys, but from what I have heard, I should state it was virtually settled. Mrs. Frances [illegible], McIlwrath's grandmother, living at Geneva, [illegible], is the first and nearest heir to the great fortune. Mrs. Fair was born in 1827, and is a close relative, and now the nearest relative, of Colonel Bradford, of

MAYFLOWER FAME.

[illegible] P. McIlwrath there are his brothers, Webster, Philip, Oliver, Condit, and William, of Cleveland. Besides these who will get a slice of the fortune are Mrs. French, Mrs. Bigelow and Mrs. Robinson of the same city, all daughters of Mrs. McIlwrath. Mrs. Fair of Geneva is the nearest descendant of Col. Bradford, who received his great fortune from his second wife, Alice Carpenter, who in turn received her wealth from her first husband, an English nobleman. The courtship in England, the separation of Col. Bradford and Miss Carpenter, and subsequent meeting and marriage in America, after Col. Bradford was a widower and his first love a widow, is a matter of history."

The Passion Play.

New York, Feb. 15.—Preparations for the presentation of the Passion play are now complete, and the theater where it is to be presented is finished in every part. The place is lighted throughout by [illegible] of seven candles each, made after the [illegible] of [illegible] pattern. A full dress rehearsal will be given Saturday evening and invitations will be issued to a large number of well known men, asking their presence. The programme has been printed. It is about the size of a sheet of note paper, and is printed with extreme simplicity. The words, "The Passion," head it, and the names of seven [illegible] follow. At the bottom is a foot note requesting that demonstrations be not made till after the [illegible].

Investigating Senator Ferry.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—S. [illegible] testified before the [illegible] committee that he had made offers of office to influence voters, though without direct authority from Senator Ferry. Everybody not a novice in politics would not question that patronage had [illegible] to do with politics. If he did not know it he [illegible] be put on new milk. A. S. Turner, editor of the Grand Rapids Eagle, said witness that Hubbell offered him thousands to oppose Ferry. Nathan [illegible], editor of the Grand Rapids Times, agreed with Hubbell to oppose Ferry for $700 down and [illegible] later.

Match Monopoly.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The Tribune has a two column [illegible] devoted to showing how oppressive is the [illegible], and how cheaply they can be made. [illegible]: "The Diamond Match company has a [illegible] in the country and regulates [illegible]. The most interesting fact is that one [illegible] parlor matches cost the manufacturers [illegible] and they are sold at $2.0 per gross to the [illegible]. Ordinary matches can be made for 60 [illegible] per gross, but the monopoly will not make a [illegible] for poor people."

Abbey's Enterprises.

[illegible] up his salary list for the opera company [illegible] a week. He has Campanini and Valrea [illegible] engaged Nilsson. He will probably [illegible] Scalchi and Gerster next January. He [illegible] very little ordinary material. The new [illegible] Opera house will be fire-proof and the [illegible] in the world, even larger than La Scala. It will seat 3500 persons.

A Woman in the Case.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—In hunting up defrauders of [illegible], the government inspectors have been [illegible] to find Miss Cora Laker, a leading [illegible] and protege of the Cook, California [illegible] manufacturer; but her absence from the [illegible] makes it impossible to complete an examination. [illegible] case; if reports are true, she spent [illegible] such discrimination in European capitals [illegible] the duty she evaded was about equal to the [illegible].

Rich Men Dying.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The morning papers comment on the mortality within the past four months [illegible] millionaires who had enormous blocks [illegible] stocks and bonds, and upon the eagerness [illegible] to have the estates settled up, thereby forcing [illegible] at a time when the sustaining power [illegible] is at its weakest. Moses Taylor, Geo. [illegible], Clark, of sewing machine notoriety, W. E. [illegible] and Gov. Morgan were all persistent bulls.

End of the Mutual Union.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The Mutual Union formally [illegible] over all its effects yesterday, to the Western [illegible] this city.

Forced to Resign.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The Post says, Insurance Commissioner Clark resigned because Governor Butler [illegible] where he received money, in one instance from insurance companies for favorable [illegible] in his report.

Defrauding Money.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—It is stated that one firm has [illegible] the government $7000 duties on goods brought [illegible] on which customs were evaded; also, [illegible] will refund heavily.

Nilsson Sick.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—Nilsson was sick at the Grand [illegible] yesterday and missed her engagement at [illegible]. She has been indisposed for several [illegible] here Saturday.

Still Balloting.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—Parry 45, Sprout 10, Newton 11, [illegible] 17, the rest scattering.

ACCIDENTS.

A Holocaust Prevented.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—An accident occurred to-day on [illegible] Pere Marquette railroad. Three coaches [illegible] Pullman were ditched. The engine, mail [illegible] passed safely. The engineer, with [illegible] bravery and presence of mind, stopped [illegible] immediately, and got two pails of water [illegible] the flames that had broken out in one [illegible], thus preventing a holocaust. Mrs. [illegible], aged 75, was killed instantly. She [illegible] at St. Vincent, Ontario, and was going to [illegible] her daughter. Mrs. Hill was injured [illegible] has become insane. Thomas Lindsay was [illegible] fatally in the chest. He jumped from the [illegible] and was thrown under the trucks. Sixteen [illegible] were more or less hurt.

Carelessness the Cause.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—Three men were probably mortally injured by a collision yesterday in the south [illegible] suburbs, between the Chicago, Burlington [illegible], and the Milwaukee and St. Paul trains. [illegible] the engineer, White, the fireman, and two [illegible] are the unfortunates. Affairs thought to [illegible]. A fog prevailed, and the carelessness of [illegible] Milwaukee train caused the smash up.

Didn't Know it was Loaded.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—Lem Haubaugh pointed a needle [illegible] a party of children in front of a school house [illegible], six miles north of this city, merely to [illegible] them and the gun was accidentally discharged, wounding three children, one dangerously, [illegible] fatally. He is in jail to await an investigation.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

[illegible] Louis, Feb. 15.—The St. Louis express train [illegible] left Kansas City last night, when about 20 [illegible] south of Moberly, Mo., at six o'clock this [illegible], encountered a broken rail and five of the [illegible] were ditched and the train wrecked. The [illegible], John Lester, was scalded to death, and [illegible], John Murphy, was cut into four pieces. [illegible] passengers injured.

Collision on the Cincinnati Northern.

[illegible], Feb. 15—A collision occurred last [illegible] on the Cincinnati Northern, a few miles [illegible]. John Roberts (colored) was killed, and [illegible] Knight, Russell Manning and Samuel Anderson seriously injured. The latter is a well known [illegible].

CRIMINAL NOTES.

The Real Murderer Discovered.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The local detectives have evidence which they believe will convict Fred Langendorf, a tramp barber, of the murder of Miss Mc[illegible], in Ogle county, Saturday last, and will [illegible] who was arrested in St. Louis, [illegible] innocent. Langendorf has been arrested here. [illegible] evidence against him is very strong.

Organized Band of Outlaws.

Des Moines, Feb. 15.—Young Dillard, who robbed [illegible] sick and helpless father, a few weeks ago, being [illegible], disclosed the fact that there is a large and well organized band of robbers engaged in all kinds [illegible] thievery in the northwest. Knowlton, the leader, [illegible] probably dead.

Fraudulent Land Scrip.

St. Louis, Feb. 15.—The Dakota fraudulent land [illegible] case was postponed in the United States court [illegible]day. On application of counsel for the defense a continuance was granted on the ground of absent witnesses and a defective indictment.

Guilty of Murder.

St. Louis, Feb. 15.—Matt. Lewis, [illegible], was [illegible] guilty of murder in the first degree for killing his wife, on the fifth trial. [illegible]

PORTUGAL.

Going to Africa.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—The Portuguese expedition is [illegible] to proceed to the west coast of Africa to [illegible] possession of Waleme[illegible] and Cabinda, near the [illegible] river.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE
In Abuse of Alcohol.
Dr. JNO. P. WHEELER, Hudson, N. Y., says: "I [illegible] given it with present decided benefit in a case of [illegible] of the brain, from abuse of alcohol."

JAY GOULD.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Feb. 15.—The Post has the following: Jay Gould will start on his tour around the world about the middle of the coming summer, and will remain away two years. He will spend the winter in the Mediterranean, visiting Italy, Greece, Egypt and India as well as China and Japan and possibly Australia.

Gould said to an interviewer: "I am going to try a little play. I did not have an opportunity when I was young, and I must do my playing later in life. If I like it I may keep it up. I have always been talking of retiring from active business life, but I have never been able to do it.

Everyone has his special tastes. Vanderbilt has cultivated a love for fast horses, because they gave him pleasure and health. I too like good horses, but I don't carry my liking to the extreme. I find pleasure in other ways. I try to enjoy my business and I enjoy my home and family the best of anything in the world. I think I have my share of pleasant things in this world. I receive a great many kicks and cuffs but they make the sweets the sweeter."

"You are about to take a trip to the southwest, are you not?" asked the reporter.

A REGULAR BUSINESS TRIP.

"Yes; but I am called as a witness in the elevated railway suits, and I cannot tell when I shall start. I may go as far as California. It will be one of my regular business trips, which generally takes about a month. I have no prospects or plans connected with the trip. I like to go out once or twice a year and see towns springing up. They grow faster than they do in long settled regions; six months after make great changes. I am well pleased with the southwestern system. It has gone ahead of my expectations in the development of the country, and the financial results that come from it. I do not think there is a railroad in the country that will make as fine a showing in earnings as the Missouri Pacific for the past year. My interest in the Western Union is simply as an investment. I never had in its control. E. A. Morgan, Augustus Schell, Marvin Green and Harrison Durkee have long been the controlling spirits of the Western Union. I propose to keep my interest in it. Morgan, who died yesterday, was the second stockholder in it. He told me Saturday, the last day he was down town, that it was the soundest investment he could think of. I was much saddened by the news of his death.

I am a director of the Union Pacific and I have a moderate interest in it, which I do not expect to part with. The gentlemen who are managing the Union Pacific, Dillon, Ames and Atkins, are among the soundest practical business men we have, and I can suggest no improvement."

Mr. Gould further said: "I have no fear of a commercial and financial disaster, as American securities are the best in the market. American railroads are equal to the best roads in Europe, both in respect to their equipment and superstructure, and built at a less cost.

"I think the percentage of new roads are useless. Competing parallel roads are a waste of capital. The majority of roads, however, are pretty well situated and will pay.

Gould gets Rid of the World.

New York, Feb. 15.—The Star says it was currently reported on Wall street yesterday that Jay Gould has disposed of his interest in the World newspaper, and that it will no longer be run as his special journal. Color is lent to the report by a sweeping change made in the management of the financial department. It was stated semi-officially that Gould desired to rid himself of his newspaper burden prior to his trip around the globe.

THE ISABELLA MINE.

Some Statements Through the Columns of the New York Herald in Regard to a Great Swindle.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Feb. 14.—The Herald has the following: "I have just learned from a reliable source," said A. L. Gardner, who is a prominent Methodist, "that J. P. Newman received a guarantee against loss from Colonel Bixby, at the time he first went into the Isabella mine speculation. In other words, while allowing his name to be used as one of the most prominent investors, he did not invest at all, for it was practically a loan and nothing more. The monopolist book concern has always been a sort of bank for the clergymen employed about there, and Newman had a balance to his credit there of quite a respectable amount, and it being after regulation banking hours, he gave the cashier of the book concern his check for a $1000, and the latter telegraphed the amount to Dr. Spauce. It was merely

A MATTER OF ACCOMMODATION

On the part of Newman, who was subsequently paid back $2000 each by Dr. Fowler and Dr. Depuy. Newman wants to know, with an air of great mystery, where the $500 came from with which his loan was repaid. It came out of the pockets of Drs. Depuy and Fowler. There is absolutely no mystery in it.

The Herald also publishes interviews with several gentlemen connected with the scheme, of which the following, from Dr. Graves is the clearest:

My attention has been called to the account of an interview had between a Herald reporter and myself respecting the Isabella mining company, which was published Wednesday last; also to the statements made by Isaac T. Russell respecting myself, as published yesterday. In this account of his interview with me the reporter states not only that he (Dr. Graves) put into the company, but his faith in the promises made in its behalf was so great that he borrowed $7000 additional and invested it. I never said that to the reporter nor anything which could reasonably be so construed. I said I lost in the enterprise what was to me a large amount, though to many it would have been very small. What I invested, however, was my own money and not other people's. It did not happen to be all I possessed. An unwarrantable use has been made of my statement. I should not want to take Dr. Fowler's responsibility in the case for all the money he had made or lost. My language did not imply nor was it designed to imply any suspicions of dishonesty on the part of Dr. Fowler in his statement made in reference to the influence of advertisements or editorials representing the property of the company, published in the Christian Advocate, while Dr. Fowler was editor of that paper, in inducing men to buy stocks, and to his subsequent endorsement of Major Sissons.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

Risk of Life on the Rail.

Chicago, Feb 15.—The Railway Age has tables showing the number of passengers carried for the year ending June 18, 1880. According to the census it was 170,000,000, and of employees 413,000. Of passengers only 61 were killed, without their own carelessness, or one to every 4,419,000, while of employes 360 were killed, or one in every 1611. One passenger to every 814,421 received injuries, and one employe to every 417. One passenger in every 328,000 was killed by his own carelessness, and one to every 1,256,000 was injured. An astonishing feature is the small danger to ordinarily careful passengers. The injuries to employes shows a very high rate and the mortality is terrible.

General Agents' Association.

St. Louis, Feb 15.—The Western association of general passenger and ticket agents, this morning, elected the following officers: President, H. B. Townsend, of the Wabash road; vice-president, C. S. Stebbins, of the Union Pacific; secretary, J. M. Chesebrough, of the Vandalia line, with an executive committee and board of arbitration. The meeting is still in progress.

War of Rates.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—All indications point to a disastrous war of rates between the eastern trunk lines. Rumors come from all sections of entering wedges, and board of trade men who are out with the roads talk significantly of the opening of lake navigation, and using water instead of rail as a means to bring the roads to terms. This increases the feeling of distrust among the roads.

Cost of the Houston & Texas.

New York, Feb. 15.—C. P. Huntington denies the report that the price paid for the Houston & Texas Central railroad was between eight and nine million dollars. He said it was much less, but declined to particularize. He said the property would be managed in harmony with the other railroads, and no existing interests were threatened by it.

A Five-Cent Fare.

Albany, Feb. 15.—The senate has passed the five cent fare bill for the elevated roads. The governor's signature makes it a law.

SPORTING NOTES.

Sullivan and Slade to Fight.

New York, Feb. 15.—The Times says it is rumored that a prize fight is soon to take place between Sullivan and Slade for $2500 a side. One of Slade's friends said yesterday: "I know for a fact that Slade is ready to sign the articles to fight Sullivan six months after signing. Slade's money is ready and the match can be arranged whenever Sullivan will meet Slade in Taylor's hotel, Jersey City."

The Sun prints a challenge signed "Fair Play," which says: "To prove to the sporting public and to Sullivan and his backers that Slade will fight, a well known sportsman, with $2500 forfeit, will meet Sullivan or his backers at Taylor's hotel, in Jersey City, on Saturday, at 1 P. M., to sign articles and arrange a match. If Sullivan has not been bluffing he will be ready to put up and sign the articles of agreement."

NOTABLE DEAD.

Jewell's Funeral.

Hartford, Feb. 15.—At [illegible] several thousand people viewed the face of the dead. In the church Rev. Dr. Parker and [illegible] Keeley made addresses. At Cedar Hill cemetery General Merwin paid a tribute to him.

The Last Hours of Gov. Morgan.

New York, Feb. 15.—Ex-Gov. Edwin D. Morgan was thought to be dying at an early hour yesterday morning. A change for the worse was announced early in the day and throughout the day the sick man gradually grew weaker. A consultation of all the physicians was held, but hopes for his recovery were past, and he died soon after.

Redding's Russia Salve has genuine merit, as all who use it will testify. Price 25c. Try it.

CONGRESS.

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, Denounces the Coal Monopoly.

The House Votes for a 25 Per Cent. Duty on Quicksilver.

Strong Attempts being made to Avoid an Extra Session.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Senate.

Washington, Feb. 15.

Blair introduced a bill to prevent convict labor being paid by the government.

The tariff bill was resumed, the pending question being upon agreeing to the amendment made in committee of the whole, putting books, etc., on the free list. Several amendments were made but it was [illegible]

Morrison offered an amendment that after July 1, 1884, no higher duty shall be levied on any article in the metal schedule than 50 per cent. ad valorem.

COAL MONOPOLY.

The amendment made in committee of the whole, raising the duty on bituminous coal from 50 to 75 cents per ton being reached, Vance, of North Carolina, asked for a separate vote upon agreeing to it.

Farley, of California, said the chief burden of the tax on coal fell upon the people of California and that this increase would add $150,000 a year to the tax thus levied upon them.

Davis, of West Virginia, advocated the amendment.

Morgan, of Alabama, said this bill ought to be entitled "a bill to tax the people of certain portions of the country and appropriate money to certain other people." It had all the worst characteristics of the river and harbor bill of last session, and it has produced the same kind of combination. Both bills were framed and pushed forward upon the same principle of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you." Negotiations had been conducted, not only in the lobby, but openly on the floor of the senate. In this matter of coal there are large bodies of coal lands in West Virginia belonging to certain gentlemen. Representatives of those interests were in the senate, voting money out of the pockets of the people of California into their own.

"Sir," said Morgan, "I have no sort of concession to make to monopolies arranged between the different industries of the United States through the lobbies and upon these floors. I have nothing but war to make upon these, and though I shall stand alone, sir, I will battle for the right upon this question. All other monopolies are combined for mutual protection and why should not the senator from West Virginia and his confreres, the owners of large coal fields, do the same? These monopolies had their regular congresses, and the congress of the United States which used to enact laws for the benefit of the whole people was now the servant of three great monopolies and their lobbyists. It has been a shameless work upon this floor and every man here knows it. Everybody feels it, and it will be proclaimed from the floor of this senate until the people of the United States shall know it and feel it."

Williams, of Kentucky, thought coal ought to be on the free list.

Miller, of California, said the Pacific coast paid three-fourths of all the tax on coal and that he thought it was an unfair application of protective principles.

Davis of West Virginia explained that there was no duty on anthracite coal, the kind used for domestic purposes. As to the argument of the senator from Alabama, he thought a large portion of it was unworthy of the senator, or of notice.

Morgan asked Davis to point out the unworthy portions of the argument.

Davis said he did not care to get into a personal controversy.

A vote was finally taken and the amendment as adopted in committee of the whole, making the duty on bituminous coal 75 cents per ton, was agreed to, ayes 23, noes 18.

An amendment inserting friction and lucifer matches at 35 per cent. ad valorem was agreed to.

THE REVENUE LAWS.

Beck offered an amendment to the tariff bill as a substitute for that offered last evening, and for section 6. It repeals sections 2907 and 2908 of the revised statutes, and section 14 of the act to amend the revenue laws of June, 1874, and provides that hereafter none of the charges imposed by those sections, or other provisions, shall be estimated in ascertaining the value of goods to be imported, nor shall the value of the usual and necessary sacks, crates, bags or coverings of any kind, be estimated as part of their value in determining the duty on them, but if any packages, sacks, etc., be made to evade duty, it shall be subject to 100 per cent. ad valorem duty upon its actual value. The amendment thus modified was agreed to.

House.

DUTY ON QUICKSILVER.

The house yesterday agreed to recommend a duty of twenty-five per cent. on quicksilver. Mr. Page moved that the duty be fixed at thirty-five per cent. and at Judge Kelley's suggestion, compromised on twenty five. In his speech Page said there was no reason why quicksilver should be on the free list. It ought to be protected. Everything used in producing it was taxed, even to the tank in which it is run from the mill, and he thought quicksilver should receive its share of protection. He said 6000 men were employed and $30,000,000 of capital was invested in quicksilver manufacturing. In California the product had increased from 7723 flasks in 1850, to 1,197,095 flasks in 1880, although, during the last few years the product had decreased, owing to foreign competition.

Kelley explained the use of quicksilver in mining and advocated the imposition of a just rate of duty, which he thought was twenty-five per cent.

Mr. Berry said that while he was not advocating a tariff for protection, he wished quicksilver to have it. He was inclined to favor a lower rate than 25 per cent. He said every gold miner used it. If the duty was increased every miner in the state would feel it. He wished a fair protection for quicksilver, but not such a protection as would increase its price.

Rosecrans outlined the history of quicksilver manufacturing on the Pacific slope. He showed that when the duty was taken from quicksilver, most of the mill manufacturers were ruined and only four or five large companies survived. They made a combination with the owners of foreign product, and prices were hastily increased. Since then the manufacture has been greatly reduced. He said miners were willing to pay a small tax as an insurance against big monopolies. By the development of small mines there would be more competition and a reduction in price would follow.

Spark's moved to amend Page's motion by fixing the duty at 10 per cent. This was voted down.

Mr. Berry voted for a 10 per cent. rate and dodged off on the 25 per cent. proposition that was agreed to by the close vote of 79 to 75.

House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, the pending paragraph being that imposing a duty of forty-five per cent. ad valorem on manufactures of articles or wares partly or wholly made of metal.

Congressional Chitchat.

AN EXTRA SESSION.

Republican senators are discussing the possibility of avoiding an extra session of the senate at the expiration of the present congress. If Mr. Davis remains in the chair until the 4th of March an extra session is inevitable, as the president pro tem must be elected to provide a successor to the president in the event of his death, resignation or inability. It is believed, however, by many senators, that Judge Davis will resign the chair a few days before the expiration of the session, if he is assured that his successor can be elected without difficulty and an extra session can be averted. A prominent republican senator expressed an opinion to-day that a presiding officer would be elected before the 4th March, although the house committee having in charge the order of business had not considered the question. The two parties in the senate are so evenly divided that the vote of Senator Mahone is a vital factor for the election of a new president pro tem, provided Davis were disposed to contest with the republicans the choice of this office. There are indications that the democrats will not oppose the election of a republican presiding officer, particularly if by so doing they can weaken Mahone's importance in the republican camp. If it is decided to proceed with the election then session the Mexican treaty will be disposed of before adjournment.

THE MEXICAN TREATY.

There is no opposition to the Mexican treaty as reported except by Morrill, Kellogg and, presumably, Jones, of Louisiana, who objects to cane sugar is admitted free. It has been demonstrated and pretty notably that Mexico never, within a period much longer than that covered by the treaty, will produce sugar enough for home consumption and must always, in all probability, import. Louisiana planters are so jealous of anything which may however remotely appear to affect their sugar interests that they were found violently opposed to the treaty when it was unofficially divulged in January that its specifications included sugar free in the latter. Change of stamp, Morrill opposes the treaty simply because it is a treaty. It is one of his hobbies to oppose all treaties.

A JOINT CONFERENCE.

The republican senators this morning decided to sustain the programme previously agreed on by the [illegible] committee, and a joint conference will be asked for with the house, in hope of reaching final action on the tariff bill. It was admitted that the situation is complicated.

An Executive Order.

Washington, Feb. 15.—An executive order will soon be issued withdrawing from Chief Moses' reservation in the northern part of Washington territory, [illegible] and restoring the [illegible] to the public domain. [illegible] will probably be thrown open for settlement.

Not Full Count.

Washington, Feb. 15.—[illegible] Fort Worth [illegible] New Orleans [illegible] hundred. An investigation is probable.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Bunker Held to Answer.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—Examination of the charges against Bunker, commissioner of the Yosemite, was resumed this morning. His attorney [illegible] Ben Towne. All the preliminary facts relative to Bunker's appointment, filing of bonds and entrance upon his duties were shown, and the gross amount collected, $43,000, together with the further admission of money placed in the hands of another party, and subsequently returned to him, was introduced in evidence. A correspondence between the controller of the state and the accused, relative to turning over funds, was read, showing a demand upon Bunker and his refusal to deliver over the moneys collected by him in his official capacity, until the determination of the suit against the [illegible] for additional fees. Upon this admission the parties rested, Bunker finally being held to answer on all charges. His bail was fixed at $20,000.

Too Ill to be Present.

Jerome Baldwin, who was to have been arraigned in the superior court this morning on the charge of attempting to murder E. J. Baldwin, was too ill to be present, and the case was continued at the request of her attorney. It is understood from private sources that she is suffering a great deal from mental prostration, and quiet is enjoined by her physician.

Death of Charles Brown.

Charles Brown, one of the most widely known pioneers on the coast, died this morning from pneumonia, at his residence in Mission Dolores, where he has resided upwards of a quarter of a century. He was a native of New York and landed at Yerba Buena, then a little village of rudely constructed huts, as far back as 1829, and remained here until the close of his life, about fifty-four years. He was twice married, his first wife being Senora Gracia de San Jose, and his widow Donna Rosalia De Haro of the widely spread family of that name. He leaves many grandchildren. His testimony in important land cases is perpetuated in fully a hundred cases. He accumulated a large fortune, nearly all of which he lost many years ago.

The Brooklyn Hotel Leased.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—The property known as the Brooklyn hotel has been leased to C. S. Bush, formerly of Bush & O'Donnell, of Walla Walla, and Chris Schultz, for fifteen years head clerk of the Russ House, and will be opened by them as a first class hotel. The interior has been literally gutted and a force of men are engaged in renovating and remodeling the house throughout. It is expected everything will be in readiness to open about the 1st of March.

Odd Fellows' Building Sold.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—The Odd Fellows' building and lot at No. 325 Montgomery Street have been sold for $150,000. The purchaser was Mrs. Pope. It is the intention of the Odd Fellows association to be in the erection of a fine building to accommodate the library and lodges of the order on Market or Mission streets.

The City of Tokio Arrived.

The steamship City of Tokio arrived in port this afternoon with her jigger and topmast gone. She reports the cause of delay as baffling head winds a great portion of the time.

The Corwin Coming.

San Francisco, Feb. 15.—The revenue steamer Corwin has received orders to proceed to Oregon immediately.

Fighting Legislators.

Sacramento, Feb. 15.—Early this morning, a party of legislators were playing cards at the Golden Eagle, among whom were Senator Cronin, of the thirteenth district, and James Farrelly, sergeant-at-arms of the assembly. A dispute over a game culminated in Cronin drawing a pistol on Farrelly. Just as a member of the party knocked his hand to one side, he fired. The bullet passed within a few inches of Farrelly's head. The party dispersed and no arrests were made. It is stated the trouble will not rest here.

On Trial for Murder.

Nevada, Feb. 15.—The cases of Collins, alias Patterson, and Thorne, alias Dorsey, the alleged Cummings murderers were called in the superior court this morning. A motion being entered to postpone Collins' case, owing to the absence of certain witnesses, the court made an order for postponing the case for three weeks. Thorne's case then came on. The balance of the afternoon was taken up in empaneling a jury, taking testimony beginning to-morrow. There are 75 witnesses to be examined, including several from the east.

FOREIGN NEWS.

IRELAND.

The Manner of Their Killing.

Dublin, Feb. 15.—It was stated at the hearing to-day of the prisoners charged with the conspiracy to murder, that eye-witnesses will depose that both Lord Cavendish and Burke were suddenly seized from behind, and that they wrenched themselves loose. It was thus they were wounded in their backs as well as breasts.

Patrick Cahill deposed that in passing the Chapelized gate the evening of the 6th of May, he saw a car driving rapidly into Phoenix park. One man on the car he identified as Caffrey. This completes the quartette of men who were on the car.

An old man named Flynn testified that after playing he walked through the park a little past the polo ground. He said a car was standing on the grass; the driver was beside the horse; further on four men were lying on a grassy slope, two on each side; he saw James Carey sitting on the seat near the Gough statue; he left him in company with another man, whom he did not know, he then saw Burke alight from the car and join Lord Frederick Cavendish.

Witness Harley deposed: Saw four or five men lying at the place where the murder was committed; identified Kelly as being among the group; further on he saw a man and a car standing; the man is not in the prisoner's dock now. He met successively the car, Burke walking and a stranger.

Flynn's identification of Carey was complete. He spoke to him while he was sitting on the seat. He recognized Kelley as the man he afterwards passed near the clump of trees.

Murphy, a laborer, identified Fitz Harris as the one who was waiting near the car with several others.

To-day will merely be used for the purpose of bringing forward all the witnesses who in traversing Phoenix park saw groups of men waiting about. The evidence so far adduced is useful to the crown, as confirming the details of Kavanaugh's statement, but has no startling interest. Meagle, one of the park officials, identified Brady as resting beside the road on the evening of the murder. He said he saw four men, one of whom was Brady tussling.

After further evidence corroborating Kavanaugh's testimony, court adjourned until Saturday.

Prominent Persons Implicated.

Dublin, Feb. 15.—At the resumption of the examination of the prisoners charged with conspiracy to murder, the names of persons in good social position will be introduced in connection with secret societies. The policeman, car driver, bicycle rider and others in Phoenix park, at the time of the murder, will confirm Kavanaugh's statement.

ENGLAND.

Ex-Empress Eugenie's Views.

London, Feb. 15.—The Times publishes an authoritative statement regarding an interview yesterday between the ex-Empress Eugenie and Prince Jerome Napoleon, which it says has cleared up some private misunderstanding existing between the ex-empress and the prince, and led to formal recognition of the latter as the head of the Bonapartist family. The empress was not called upon to express her opinion of her kinsman's general policy, and could not consistently with the policy adopted by her while sojourning in Paris assure her cousin of her best wishes for any constitutional action he may take towards bringing about a plebiscite. The recent visit of the empress to Paris was a mark of sympathy with Prince Napoleon on account of his illegal arrest; not in respect to the views of his manifesto. She disclaims participation in any unlawful or clandestine purpose against the republic.

The prince on his part states if the popular vote should pronounce for a republic, he should bow to it. The republic has never yet, he says, polled a clear majority of registered electors, and the state is therefore governed merely by virtue of popular apathy. If the prince is banished he may come to London. He has no intention of abdicating his position in favor of his son. The latter was not privy to the issue of the manifesto, but there is no antagonism between him and his father. The general opinion in Paris political circles is that the dissolution of the chamber of deputies will soon occur.

Demonstration for Bradlaugh.

London, Feb. 15.—A great popular demonstration will be made in Charing Cross in favor of the claim of Bradlaugh to a seat in the house of commons, to which he was re-elected from Northampton borough in March last. Delegates from London workmen's clubs, and others, representing four hundred provincial towns, will be present. The police authorities have made arrangements to quell any disorder that may arise.

Bradlaugh's Plans.

Bradlaugh, in a speech at a meeting at Charing Cross, announced that if nothing was mentioned in the house of commons, by 4 o'clock this afternoon, about the bill allowing members to make an affirmation who desire to do so, instead of taking the usual parliamentary oath, he should then take his seat in the house. There is a large crowd outside of Westminster palace, the gates of which are guarded.

Eugenie and Napoleon.

London, Feb. 15.—It is understood the interview between Eugenie and Prince Napoleon was most cordial.

Words Cannot Picture the Suffering at Cincinnati.

Appeals for Help and the Work of Relief Committees.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—An additional gloom overpowers the city, caused by the fact that the river, after falling to 64 feet 10½ inches, began to rise under the influence of a steady hard rain, which has advanced from the west, thus checking the fall and extends as far as Pittsburg. Unless it stops speedily there is no hope of the river receding while dangerous fears are felt. The rain seriously embarrasses the work of the committee, but they are doing all they can to distribute food. Soup houses were opened to-day in various parts of the city to feed those able to get to them. Bishop Elder has ordered all Catholic churches thrown open immediately to the homeless, and sent a circular to the clergy to-day, asking that contributions be sent to the chamber of commerce and city council relief committee fund. The trustees will advance the money on bonds yesterday authorized by the legislature, so action thereby will be prompt. Many cases of extreme destitution are reported by the relief board. In some cases the frantic cries of starving children for food are heartrending. Bakeries notified are pressed to their fullest capacity to keep up a supply of bread. There has been some fears of a famine on account of the difficulty of receiving livestock, but several thousand reserved distillery cattle will be utilized in case of necessity.

A GLOOMY DAY.

The river at 9 last night was 60 feet and ¼ of an inch and rising slowly. Yesterday was the gloomiest in the history of the city. Business is wholly neglected, all attention being given to the saving of property and affording relief. While the unexpected rise of nearly a foot to-day has not made a very great change apparently in the situation there is such uncertainty about the future, that all plans are unsettled. Not only is it impossible to estimate the extent of the coming rise but no one can tell when the rain will cease along the river. Here the clouds broke away late in the afternoon but gathered again before 10 o'clock, the rain falling above and below. The weather is almost sultry. The effect of this uncertainty is to cause another lifting to higher levels of vast quantities of goods, hitherto supposed to be above the reach of the water. This is being done at an immense labor and under the most trying circumstances. The water now stands in the gutters on the south side of Pearl and Walnut streets. The little Miami depot is flooded. Wagons no longer are able to cross the Newport bridge. The Louisville and Nashville trains receive passengers on the trestle at the Cincinnati end of the bridge, they reaching it by boats. The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road which has been the only outlet for trains north and east, last night went under the flood to such an extent that no trains could pass, which leaves the city practically

CUT OFF FROM THE REST OF THE WORLD

To the northeast and west by regular communication; except by the Bee-line which still runs trains, leaving from the stock yard station. Three hundred passengers are waiting at Winton place for transportation by omnibus into the city. The water has so permeated McLean avenue that wagons sink to the hubs in removing express and baggage. The most lively fears are entertained that whole streets will sink under the trains. It cannot yet be told what arrangement can be made for forwarding mail or even what can be done about running trains. Not a steamer is running, as there is no place to land. A little steamer used by the Ohio & Mississippi, to convey passengers from Storrs' station to Aurora, Ind., on its return last night had a fearful experience. A fog overtook it and it was unable to proceed with safety. It was found almost equally difficult in finding a place to tie up; but she finally succeeded in reaching Storrs' station. In addition to the precaution of an increased police force, the city is partly lighted to-night by coal oil lamps set inside the gas lamps. The work of relief has gone on vigorously. Many touching scenes are witnessed. The citizens have not waited for the cry of distress before extending help, but have taken steps to prevent suffering. Considerable sums from outside for relief have been received.

Among incidents of the flood was the finding of a baby asleep in its crib in a house floating near the bank below the city. The little waif was rescued and taken care of by the Catholic orphan society.

SCENES OF TERROR.

At 1 o'clock this morning the people in the vicinity of No. 60, Wilstach street, in the eastern part of the city, were startled by a loud explosion, which broke the glass in the windows. A three-story brick building occupied by four families, numbering seventeen persons, was found in ruins. The explosion came from fire damp or sewer gas in the cellar, and all the people were buried in the debris. A scene of terror followed. It is supposed the explosion was caused by the pressure of water in the sewer, and the people thought other explosions would follow. Many left their houses in the utmost alarm, and fled, thinly clad, to places of safety. A fire alarm was turned in, which added to the consternation. The fire department responded promptly, but finding no fire began the slow work of removing the unfortunate victims.

The house was owned by Jacob Brown, who, with his wife, two sons and two daughters, occupied the first floor. Officer Mackey, a special policeman at Fourth and Vine streets, known as "King William," occupied the front room on the second floor with his wife. The back of the same story was occupied by Wm. Miller, wife and two children. The third floor was occupied by Wm. Hannon, wife, and two twin-daughters two years old. By five A. M. all the occupants had been taken out. Officer Mackey and wife and the two-year-old daughter of Mr. Miller, were dead. John and Henry Brown, and Robert Rockamann, a neighbor who was in the house at the time, are badly injured and can hardly recover. Jacob Brown and wife, rescued after several hours labor, were seriously but not fatally hurt. His daughters were taken out comparatively unhurt. Mr. Miller is sadly injured. All the rest of his family, except the child named above, escaped with slight injuries. Brown's boys and Rockamann were building a raft with lumber in the cellar, and went for it with a candle, when the gas or damp exploded. The adjoining houses were injured by the explosion.

LATEST REPORTS.

The weather is very warm and cloudy, with occasional sunshine. The river is fluctuating and apparently declining, but very slightly. It stands about 66 feet 3 inches. The flood in the Licking and other streams is expected, if not to swell the stream here, to check the fall. The only important change in the railroad situation is the transfer of trains of the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore from the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton to its own track, and making the yards the station, four miles from the depot. This can be reached by omnibuses, which must be run through water a portion of the way. The damage to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton roads lies in the city limits, and was caused by the sudden rise in Mill creek and branches. Yesterday the track washed out and the bridge at Cumminsville is in danger. Trains on the Pan-Handle again changed their route this morning, starting from the stock yard's station and going from the stock yards by the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore road to Loveland, where their own track is reached. A large quantity of eastern mails was sent out that way. To-day considerable western mail was also sent from the stock yard's station to Columbus and thence west. The river has been at 66 feet 2½ inches since 10 this morning. This shows no rise since morning and leaves a hope that there may be no further rise. The work of relief goes on with energy. Not only is the general committee, representing the chamber of commerce, and the common council, disbursing with a liberal hand, but the Masonic relief organization are doing fine work, having called for volunteers to act as crews for the boats which have been received from Cleveland, Sandusky and Toledo. They have established relief stations in various parts of the city. Besides, the women of all the protestant churches are collecting bedding and clothing.

All the Catholic churches have been thrown open for sleeping places for such homeless persons as may be sent by the general committee. No more complete and systematic system than they have, could be devised, and the great value of the work is the thoughtfulness and promptness with which aid is extended. There is still a most gratifying absence of crime. It was suspected that burglars and highway robbers would abound on account of the general unprotected state of property in flood and darkness, but the expectation was not realized. There have been fewer arrests during the past five days than at any similar time of the month, and no reports of crime have reached the police. Nearly everybody wears a fatigued look. It has been sober, hard work, and a trial and anxiety to a large portion of the population of the city. The relief committee of the board of trade have raised $[illegible]00 for the relief of the Ohio flood sufferers.

Cincinnati Needs Help.

Dayton, Feb. 14.

M. Halstead, Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette:

W. D. Bickham.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.

W. D. Bickham, Journal, Dayton:

You ask if help is needed here? Certainly it is. It is difficult to realize the state of situation, and it puzzles one to believe what he sees. It is [illegible]. The river is above 66 feet, and [illegible] further rise is expected. You would not know the place where you were born. [illegible] More than half the people of Newport have abandoned their houses. A great deal of money has been raised here, but the vast suffering will require a great deal more. [illegible]

M. HALSTEAD.

Snow and Sleet.

[illegible], Feb. 15.—It was rain all day. The snow and sleet is two inches deep.

Immense Excitement.

Louisville, Feb. 15.—The Ohio is 41 feet and 6 inches and rising an inch an hour. There is immense excitement on account of the rise above here. Business is at a standstill. No boats are arriving and few trains are stopping, coming only freight [illegible]. [illegible] men predict that the river will not soon recede. The water surrounds the entire city. The wildest estimates of the damage are made, but none are reliable. Nothing more is known about the loss of life, the houses being still cut off except to divers. The loss of life will not be extraordinarily large.

Worse Coming.

Louisville, Feb. 15.—The river has risen slowly all day. It is now rising an inch an hour. Owing to preparations, less damage is being done than at the beginning. The highest water ever known before was 42 feet at the head of the canal, and 68 feet at the foot of the falls, and worse is coming. All along the seven miles of the Louisville river-front to-day, the water has been creeping in the second stories of buildings, widening its extent toward the western boundaries of the city.

An Appeal for Aid.

Newport, Ky., Feb. 15.—Mayor Harlen has issued an appeal to the country for aid. He says three thousand families are destitute. Contributions may be sent to W. H. Lafo, treasurer of the citizens' relief fund. The town had just recovered from the epidemic of smallpox.

Flooded for Miles.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 15.—The river is 45½ feet and still rising. It will take six feet more to do serious damage. The adjacent fields are flooded for miles. At Pittsburg the river is still rising. It has been raining all day, and a greater rise is expected.

Masonic Relief.

Cleveland, Feb. 15.—The life saving crew went to Cincinnati this afternoon. The Masons are moving to aid the sufferers by the flood. The river here is rising and is already outside of the banks. It is raining lightly.

Raining Hard.

Greensburg, Ind., Feb. 15.—The water rose at Lawrence Junction since morning an inch and a half. It is raining hard all the time.

Zanesville, Feb. 15.—The Muskingum is rising fast. It has been raining all day. At Pomeroy the river is falling 1½ inches per hour. There has been a steady rain all this morning.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 15.—The river is rising an inch an hour. There was a heavy rain last night.

Traffic Stopped.

Hamilton, Ohio, Feb. 15.—A special from Cincinnati reports that by rail all traffic west and south is stopped. A meeting of citizens to-night will be held to relieve distress.

Trestle Swept Away.

Fremont, Ohio, Feb. 15.—Heavy rain all day. At 3 this afternoon the dam gave away. About the same time the trestle work for the new bridge of the Lake Shore railway was swept away.

Great Destitution.

Madison, Ind., Feb. 15.—The river is still rising. There are no fatalities, but the damage and destitution is great.

More Assistance Needed.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—The committee sent to Lawrenceburg last night, reported that all the provisions were delivered to-day. The suffering is increasing. More assistance is needed immediately. Another car load of provisions, coal oil, candles and delicacies for the sick, will go to-night.

The operator at Guilford says: "It is still raining hard at 6 P. M. The indications are that it will continue during the night."

Will Raise the Miami.

Cincinnati, Feb. 15.—The people are being moved as fast as possible from Hardentown. The rains will raise the Miami, and while Lawrenceburg will be most damaged, the people of the latter place have received a car of provisions and goods shipped this morning. No lives have been lost yet. The water is six feet deep at Fords, on Tinker's creek.

Farmers Suffer Greatly.

New Albany, Ind., Feb. 14.—The loss by the flood here is not less than $250,000. No lives lost. Farmers along the Ohio river suffer greatly, many losing their entire crops. Six hundred families are homeless and nearly destitute. Manufactories are all stopped.

The Arkansas Rising.

Little Rock, Feb. 15.—The Arkansas river here, rose nearly three feet to-day. It is 15 feet above low water mark. The Ouachita and other rivers are also rising and fears are felt in the bottoms of another disastrous overflow.

Sending Provisions.

Indianapolis, Feb. 15.—The legislature has appropriated $40,000 for Lawrenceburg. The board of trade has $15,000 for the same object. Another car load of provisions has gone to-day.

Another Deluge Feared.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 15.—Another deluge is feared. Lumber piles are being anchored on the flats. The drift wood and ice gorges will be blown up with dynamite and all practicable precautions taken against the threatened overflow.

Raining all Day.

Wheeling, W. V., Feb. 15.—The river is 26 feet and still rising. It has been raining hard all day.

The Kentucky Stationary.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 15.—The Kentucky river is stationary at 34 feet. It is now raining.

Later.—The Kentucky river is 34 feet and falling slowly. It rained all night, but it is now clear and very warm. People are preparing to resume their houses when they find them. The relief committee is doing good work.

Theatrical View of the Flood.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Henry E. Abbey arrived here to-night. In an interview with a reporter he said: "I left Cincinnati yesterday, and it is the most doleful place I ever saw. Water, water, everywhere! Imagine people going to take a drink in boats, and the bars in second and third floors. The station houses are full of people who are left homeless. We came near losing Marcus R. Mayer. We went down to the Hamilton and Dayton depot on a plank raft. His hat blew off, and in trying to catch it he fell overboard and tipped Matthews and me off the raft. We got to the train, however, and arrived here some hours late.

"The papers have given a description of the floods better than I can, but I assure you no reports can give an accurate account of the waste which the floods have caused. The city is in total darkness. With all its misery there is no chance of losing its water supply. Langtry is playing there under depressing circumstances. There was a large advance sale of seats but people can't get to the theater to fill them. She plays here again March 7th, her last appearance under the Abbey management."

FIRES.

Globe Rubber Factory.

New York, Feb. 15.—The fine Globe Rubber Jewelry factory, at No. 21 Canal street, burned yesterday. Loss, $100,000; insured.

Straw Hat Factory.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 15.—J. G. Petrie & Co.'s straw hat and bonnet factory burned to-day. The loss is estimated at $25,000; insurance, $13,000.

Whole Village Burned.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—A large part of the village of Swartz Creek, Mich., burned on Tuesday; loss $120,000; insurance $40,000.

Courthouse Burned.

Bayfield, Wis., Feb. 15.—The county court house burned with all valuable papers yesterday. Most of the records are safe; loss $15,000, insurance $3,000.

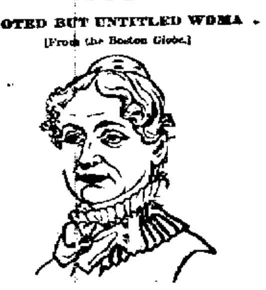
A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMA.
[From the Boston Globe.]



Messrs. Editors —
The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

FRIDAY MORNING [illegible]

[illegible] IN THE ARMY

Sherman Senator Logan and Secretary Lincoln which would be good in the back of [illegible] der any ordinary circumstances But he is not the man of Gen Ingalls' choice, and the chances are that a man several files below him will receive this appointment over Col Halabird's head. This man is Lieut Perry who is related by marriage to August Belmont and who through this channel is bringing the solid support of democratic senators and congressmen to his cause. Add to this influence the entire force of the stalwart ring at Washington, and it will be seen that Lieut Perry is likely to be promoted over the head of an older if not a better officer

Any such movement is ruinous to the discipline and morality in the army We well remember the indignant remonstrance that went up from the masses of the people throughout the length and breadth of the continent when the booby son of America's greatest soldier was brevetted from a lieutenant to a lieutenant colonel over the heads of a hundred grizzled captains and majors who had grown gray under the flag. We recall the covert sneers that pervaded the ever-obsequious English press when the Duke of Connaught was made a major general in the British army over the heads of weather-beaten colonels and brigadiers who had driven the murderous Sepoys to their jungles and beaten back the Muscovite bayonets at Alma and Inkermann before he was born And feeling, as we do that no officer should be promoted but of his rank save for bravery on the battlefield we feel that a great injustice is being done to Colonel Halabird and a grievous wrong inflicted upon the body of the army at large.

General Ingalls' ear marks are visible all over this job, for shrewd and effective worker as he usually is he has been unable to cover them up. He is a man of big brain, and quick to execute. His methods in the quartermaster's department for the past twenty years are those of a good business man and a thorough soldier, and as such merit hearty approval His methods of not only getting his own pay increased to that of a rank he never held and then seeking to designate his successor in office are the methods of an unscrupulous politician and as such deserve unqualified condemnation Once let this sort of work become established and there will be no such thing as honorable ambition left in the army The sword will rust in its scabbard, and the army will be filled with drunkards and gamblers who will rely upon rich relatives and mercenary congressmen to advance them to positions they could never hope to reach by individual merit Again we hope that this attempt to foist August Belmont's "Pinafore" relation into this important station over the head of his superior officer will be frowned down and given its quietus or if this quietus should involve the defeat of the bill to increase General Ingalls' pay on the retired list. The latter recognition of his services should be sufficient for that gentleman at this late day, and in "these piping times of peace

The Chicago Tribune in an editorial makes just complaint against the signal service bureau, for taking all the thermometrical and other meteoric observations not from a level where men live and move and have their being but from the upper stories of buildings eighty or one hundred feet above where most men breathe the air There are several degrees variation between these heights and the ground and for all practical purposes the observations might as well be taken from any other place as from that specified There is never any agreement between the signal service thermometer and those kept by individuals, and if the present plan is to be adhered to the signal service officers should give the amount of variation between theirs and the true places of observation so that common people might know somewhere near the true degree of heat and cold

The agricultural department through its veterinary division has been engaged during the past year in investigating epidemic diseases among domesticated animals Last June a commission consisting of Dr Salmand New York Dr Hines, Washington and Dr Saunders Virginia was appointed to study cattle diseases and requested to report the result of their work to congress Its report just presented shows the total number of cattle in the United States to be 33 ,00 355 valued at $ 69 139 193 In Texas alone there are 4 0 340 cattle The loss from epidemic diseases 0 per cent.

ALBANY [illegible] The wheat [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] surface of the earth was [illegible] On high ground and where the soil is gravelly or clayey the most damage has been done Some varieties of wheat particularly golden chaff are more injured than others while there are fields that will have to be resown. Some lots are very little damaged and experienced farmers think if warm rains come soon not more than one-third [illegible] will be lost but if the nights continue frosty what is not already dead will soon be killed The oat crop is entirely destroyed

Lane

ARKANSAS CITY Feb 15 It is impossible to estimate the damage to fall grain at present The tops of the grain are all killed must have a few days warm weather before it can be ascertained whether the roots are killed Some farmers think the crop is entirely destroyed while others consider the damage light About one [illegible] of the arable land in the county is sown in fall grain If the crops are destroyed we will have to sow spring wheat for seed There is scarcely any in the county One dollar per bushel has been offered for spring oat for the past two weeks

Douglas

ROSEBURG Feb 15—As far as heard from the grain in all localities is somewhat damaged by the recent cold spell Lots of reseeding will have to be done Principally oats and barley

Umatilla

UMATILLA Feb 15 The ground was warm when the heavy snowfall came Just before the [illegible] weather set in the snow was ten inches deep at Prospect and fifteen inches about Weston and protect the growing wheat fully against the severe cold Farmers are satisfied that the past cold has not injured the crops and the heavy snow is a decided benefit

Cold weather continues It is now 1[illegible] degrees above zero and a light dry snow two inches deep has fallen during the past two nights

THE WALLA WALLA VALLEY

WALLA WALLA Feb 15.—Interviews with prominent wheat buyers and growers confirm all expectations that this season's wheat crop will be the largest and best ever known in the annals of this country Warm rains during the fall and early winter followed by heavy snow, which had the effect of covering the grain up and preventing freezing, raise hope in the breast of every farmer unless something unlooked for happens A Statesman reporter interviewing a grain raiser to-day was told to say that if things go as they have been the boys would have $50 pieces to throw at the birds This applies to Umatilla Walla Walla Columbia Garfield Whitman and Spokane counties and also to northern Idaho Fall sown grain could not look better

Spokane.

CHENEY W T Feb 15 Little winter wheat sown in the county there than [illegible] in the entire county so the damage by the freeze is light The thermometer is now above zero and the weather is steadily moderating

HISTORIC NAMES.

To the EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I notice in to-day's OREGONIAN a letter from Bishop Morris as also one from Mrs E M Wilson of The Dalles to him relating to the name of Lee's Encampment in the Blue mountains and the circumstances under which it was given It was undoubtedly named on the 19th of April 1838 by Captain Thomas McKay and in honor of Rev Jason Lee the real pioneer of Oregon who had been in the Willamette valley since the autumn of 1834 and was then on his way back to the states for a reinforcement to his mission The story as given by Mrs Wilson is a very interesting and romantic one but several of its incidents are apochryphal Of course she gives them with all fidelity to her information I have before me at this writing the manuscript journal of Mr Lee himself just as penned by his own hand and covering his journey to Oregon in 1834 his and journey back to the states in 1838 Mrs Wilson states that Dr and Mrs Whitman accompanied Mr Lee as far as Lee's Encampment where they took leave of him after enjoying the hospitality of Captain McKay and his people This is the fact as narrated by Mr Lee himself

Mr McKay's camp was near Dr Whitman's [illegible] and all was ready for moving on the 11th of April Mr Lee thus says

"April 12 Came to camp accompanied by Doctor and Mrs Whitman and Mr Spaulding It was in motion and we passed on to its front. I then remained with them until all had passed and we kneeled on the bank of a small stream and Mr Spaulding commended us to the throne of grace We then took the parting hand and they returned to their arduous labors and I pensively pursued to camp

April 13th was Sunday and the camp did not move nor did it move on Monday the 14th on account of a violent rain On the 15th they came to the river Moreau Wild Horse] felled a tree and carried over the baggage

On the 18th they reached the Umatilla at the old Cayuse station crossing but finding the river too high for fording remained until the 18th when they crossed the river Mr P L Edwards narrowly escaping being drowned

"April 19th Came a good march to the middle of the Blue mountains and camped on a small plain

This was Lee's Encampment At this point Mr Lee's company Captain McKay's company and Frank Ermatinger's company all united to travel together towards rendezvous

It will be seen that doctor and Mrs Whitman had parted with Mr Lee six days before The now united companies remained here only one night and on the 20th Sunday crossed the remainder of the mountains and camped on the Grand Ronde river

Captain McKay had the greatest confidence in even affection for Mr Lee as evidenced by his committing his two sons William C and Donald to his care to take to the states for an education On July 29th, on Bear river Captain McKay finally took leave of them, the parting scene being very affecting

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 16, 1883.

SUCCESSION IN THE ARMY.

The succession to the important office of quartermaster general of the United States army is a matter which is now creating an unusual degree of excitement in army circles. As is well known, that office is now held by Gen. Ingalls, a former resident of Oregon, who will be retired next year under the provisions of the army bill which passed last year and which retires all officers at the age of sixty-four years. A bill is now pending before congress to retire Gen. Ingalls with the rank of major general to which it is [illegible] to raise [illegible]. General Ingalls has performed a great deal of important work in the army and thoroughly systematized the quartermaster's department in a manner that shows him to have been an excellent man of business, and he deserves not only the thanks of the country for it, but a more substantial recognition of his services by an increase of pay in retirement which will also prove an incentive to [illegible] discretion and economy on the part of those who succeed him in that important field.

So far as the increase of Gen. Ingalls' pay is concerned, we see no impropriety in it for reasons already given. But we do object to the intrigue now going on at Washington by which he is seeking to help his personal friends by designating his successor in office. By strict observation of the routine of promotion, his successor in office would be Col. Halabird, whose record as a soldier is undimmed by a single blur and his reputation as a man is second to none in the army. He is advocated for the place by Generals Hancock, Sheridan, Sherman, Senator Logan and Secretary Lincoln, which would be good enough backing under any ordinary circumstances. But he is not the man of Gen. Ingalls' choice, and the chances are that a man several files below him will receive this appointment over Col. Halabird's head. This man is Lieut. Perry, who is related by marriage to August Belmont, and who, through this channel, is bringing the solid support of democratic senators and congressmen to his cause. Add to this influence the entire force of the stalwart ring at Washington, and it will be seen that Lieut. Perry is likely to be promoted over the head of an older if not a better officer.

Any such movement is ruinous to the discipline and morality in the army. We well remember the indignant remonstrance that went up from the masses of the people throughout the length and breadth of the continent, when the booby son of America's greatest soldier was brevetted from a lieutenant to a lieutenant colonel over the heads of a hundred grizzled captains and majors who had grown gray under the flag. We recall the covert sneers that pervaded the ever-obsequious English press when the Duke of Connaught was made a major general in the British army over the heads of weather-beaten colonels and brigadiers who had driven the murderous Sepoys to their jungles and beaten back the Muscovite bayonets at Alma and Inkermann before he was born. And feeling, as we do, that no officer should be promoted out of his rank save for bravery on the battlefield, we feel that a great injustice is being done to Colonel Halabird, and a grievous wrong inflicted upon the body of the army at large.

General Ingalls' ear-marks are visible all over this job; for, shrewd and effective worker as he usually is, he has been unable to cover them up. He is a man of big brain, and quick to execute. His methods in the quartermaster's department for the past twenty years are those of a good business man and a thorough soldier, and as such merit hearty approval. His methods of not only getting his own pay increased to that of a rank he never held, and then seeking to designate his successor in office, are the methods of an unscrupulous politician, and as such deserve unqualified condemnation. Once let this sort of work become established, and there will be no such thing as honorable ambition left in the army. The sword will rust in its scabbard, and the army will be filled with drunkards and gamblers, who will rely upon rich relatives and mercenary congressmen to advance them to positions they could never hope to reach by individual merit. Again we hope that this attempt to foist August Belmont's "Pinafore" relation into this important station over the head of his superior officer, will be frowned down and given its quietus, even if that quietus should involve the defeat of the bill to increase General Ingalls' pay on the retired list. The latter recognition of his services should be sufficient for that gentleman at this late day, and in "these piping times of peace."

A BARKING DOG.

The following, addressed personally to the editor of THE OREGONIAN, and written in a wretched scrawling hand, was received at this office yesterday:

PORTLAND, OGN., Feb 15.

If you would be wise in time speak no more of Ireland or Irish. Cavendish and Burk were not removed by Irish but by Americans. You insignificant ——, you know it. There are more hellish crimes committed in Oregon than in Ireland. Look out for No. 1.

The Chicago Tribune, in an editorial, makes just complaint against the signal service bureau, for taking all the thermometrical and other meteoric observations, not from a level where men live and move and have their being, but from the upper stories of buildings eighty or one hundred feet above where most men breathe the air. There are several degrees variation between these heights and the ground, and for all practical purposes the observations might as well be taken from any other place as from that specified. There is never any agreement between the signal service thermometer and those kept by individuals, and if the present plan is to be adhered to, the signal service officers should give the amount of variation between theirs and the true places of observation, so that common people might know somewhere near the true degree of heat and cold.

The agricultural department through its veterinary division has been engaged, during the past year in investigating epidemic diseases among domesticated animals. Last June a commission consisting of Dr. Salmand, New York; Dr. Hines, Washington, and Dr. Saunders, Virginia, was appointed to study cattle diseases and requested to report the result of their work to congress. Its report, just presented, shows the total number of cattle in the United States to be 33,296,355, valued at $659,190,159. In Texas alone there are 4,072,240 cattle. The loss from epidemic diseases is 10 per cent.

Lobbying has come to be a profession, and just now it is holding high carnival at the national capital. We learn from the classification of an exchange that there is a whisky lobby, a land lobby, a land grant lobby, a quinine lobby, an iron and steel lobby, a Gould lobby and a railroad lobby. Many others might be added to this list, including a plate glass lobby, the lobbyist being the single person to be benefited by the increase of tariff he is after.

The grand jury of St. Louis recommend a city license fee of $1000 for each liquor saloon, with the exception of those where only wine and beer are sold, for which they recommend a license fee of $500. At present there are 1860 saloons in St. Louis, from which the city derives about $200,000 of revenue annually, and it is believed that under the proposed change this amount would be doubled and the number of saloons reduced one-half.

Taking the hint from a bill introduced in the Minnesota legislature, Dakota residents of the Red river valley are urging the adoption of a territorial law to enable townships to issue $5000 of bonds for the purpose of ditching and road building.

THE GROWING CROPS.

Telegraphic reports from the grain exporting counties, which we print this morning, show that general and very serious damage has been done to fall sown fields by the recent cold weather. It is not yet possible to know the extent of the injury, but it certainly will be great in western Oregon. An incidental misfortune is the general lack of spring grain for seed, for with this the frozen fields could be seeded over again in the spring, and the farmer would lose little more than the cost of new seed and the labor of re-sowing. But while there seems to be but little of the proper kind of seed wheat in the country, it is thought that a few cents per bushel above the market price will find sufficient to do the fall work over again. In many localities, particularly in Marion and Linn counties, and in a lesser degree elsewhere, the ground has been raised a foot or more above its natural level. Soils thus disturbed have been greatly benefited. The heavy, beating rains of western Oregon, while they revive the soil and are the chief blessing of the farmer, have a tendency to pack the surface ground into a hard, unfriable crust. This the frost will crumble into dust. Fields deeply frozen will be almost as much benefited by the lifting and rending of the soil as if they had lain fallow an entire season. But if every kernel sown in western Oregon last fall were frozen, it would not indicate a general failure of crops, though of course the surplus for export would be less. The spring weeks will afford another seeding time and few fields will be abandoned for the whole season.

Reports from eastern Washington and Oregon—Walla Walla, Umatilla, Columbia, Garfield, Whitman and Spokane counties—show that crops there have not been damaged and that in fact they promise unusually well. Abundant rains in the fall put the ground in fine condition and during the cold weather fields have been covered by a protecting coat of snow. The clever extravagance of our Walla Walla correspondent, that the people of his region next fall will "have twenty dollar pieces to throw at the birds" indicates the hopefulness felt in that country. "Crops never fail in Oregon" nor we may add in Washington.

Mr. Richard K. Fox, the celebrated sporting editor and mæcenas, has been arrested for endeavoring to bring into a combat with gloves the notorious J. L. Sullivan and the Maori champion Slade. Mr. Fox declared with a good deal of truth that a glove show should be as free as a mock duel in the drama. Indeed, Mr. Fox might go a step further and say that the police law allows such barbarism as shooters of apples off the heads of women to commit homicide with impunity—and yet, when never a man has been killed in a glove fight encounter, the same justice arrests as a malefactor one who arranges a friendly tussle at skill and strength!

HISTORIC NAMES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I notice in to-day's OREGONIAN a letter from Bishop Morris, as also one from Mrs. E. M. Wilson, of The Dalles, to him, relating to the name of "Lee's Encampment," in the Blue mountains, and the circumstances under which it was given. It was undoubtedly named on the 19th of April, 1838, by Captain Thomas McKay, and in honor of Rev. Jason Lee, the real pioneer of Oregon, who had been in the Willamette valley since the autumn of 1834, and was then on his way back to the states for a reinforcement to his mission. The story, as given by Mrs. Wilson, a very interesting and romantic one, but several of its incidents are apocryphal. Of course she gives them with all fidelity to her information. I have before me at this writing the manuscript journal of Mr. Lee, himself, just as penned by his own hand, and covering his journey to Oregon in 1834, and his journey back to the states in 1838. Mrs. Wilson states that Dr. and Mrs. Whitman accompanied Mr. Lee as far as "Lee's Encampment" where they took leave of him after enjoying the hospitality of Captain McKay and his people. This is the fact as narrated by Mr. Lee himself:

Mr. McKay's camp was near Dr. Whitman's station and all was ready for moving on the 11th of April, Mr. Lee thus says:

"April 12. Came to camp accompanied by doctor and Mrs. Whitman and Mr. Spaulding; it was in motion, and we passed on to its front. I then remained with them until all had passed, and we kneeled on the bank of a small stream and Mr. Spaulding commended us to the throne of grace. We then took the parting hand, and they returned to their arduous labors and I pensively pursued to camp.

"April 13th was Sunday, and the camp did not move, nor did it move on Monday, the 14th, on account of a violent rain. On the 15th they came to the river Moccan (Wild Horse), felled a tree and carried over the baggage.

"On the 16th they reached the Umatilla at the old Cayuse station crossing, but finding the river too high for fording remained until the 18th, when they crossed the river, Mr. P. L. Edwards narrowly escaping being drowned.

"April 19th. Came a good march to the middle of the Blue mountains, and camped on a small plain.

"'This was 'Lee's Encampment.' At this point Mr. Lee's company, Captain McKay's company and Frank Ermatinger's company all united to travel together towards rendezvous."

It will be seen that doctor and Mrs. Whitman had parted with Mr. Lee six days before. The now united companies remained here only one night, and on the 20th Sunday "crossed the remainder of the mountains and camped on the Grand Ronde river."

Captain McKay had the greatest confidence in, even affection for, Mr. Lee, as evidenced by his committing his two sons, William C. and Donald, to his care to take to the states for an education. On July 29th, on Bear river, Captain McKay finally took leave of them, "the parting scene being very affecting."

THE GROWING CROPS.

EFFECT OF THE FREEZE-UP ON FALL-SOWN WHEAT.

Considerable Damage Throughout the Willamette Valley, but Walla Walla Wheat in Splendid Condition.

To learn what damage, if any, the recent cold spell had on growing crops, correspondents of THE OREGONIAN in the grain producing sections of Oregon and Washington were telegraphed to yesterday for information on the subject, and their reports are printed below.

WILLAMETTE VALLEY.

Yamhill.

MCMINNVILLE, Feb. 15.—Wheat is badly damaged. Should the weather keep cloudy some may stand the freeze. A hot sun, however, would be likely to make a finish of it all.

Washington.

CORNELIUS, Feb. 15.—The wheat is all badly damaged and most of it will have to be resown.

Polk.

DALLAS, Feb. 15.—There is too much diversity of opinion among farmers to form an idea of the amount of damage by the freeze, which is certainly considerable. Tops are withered, but whether roots are injured or not cannot be determined until we have a few days warm weather. In low, wet lands, the damage is much greater than in uplands. It is not likely that more than one-fourth of the area sown last fall will have to be resown.

Marion.

SALEM, Feb. 15.—Marion county farmers will suffer considerably from the cold spell. Frost has raised the soil and exposed the roots of fall wheat, and in many places there will not be half a crop. There is a great scarcity of spring wheat which will in a great measure prevent resowing, and consequently crops not in will remain undisturbed. Farmers hoped for heavy rains immediately after the freeze up, but a gradual thaw during the day and heavy frosts each night have made matters much worse. It is generally conceded, however, that this county will closely crowd its usual export owing to increased acreage.

Linn.

ALBANY, Feb. 15.—The wheat crop looks bad, worse than ever before known in this county. The ground was so full of water and the freeze-up so sudden that the whole surface of the earth was puffed up, tearing the growing wheat from the roots. On high ground and where the soil is gravelly or clayey, the most damage has been done. Some varieties of wheat, particularly golden chaff, are more injured than others, while there are fields that will have to be resown. Some tracts are very little damaged, and experienced farmers think if warm rains come soon, not more than one-third of the crop would be lost, but if the nights continue frosty, what is not already dead will soon be killed. The oat crop is entirely destroyed.

Lane.

EUGENE CITY, Feb. 15.—It is impossible to estimate the damage to fall grain at present. The tops of the grain are all killed; must have a few days warm weather before it can be ascertained whether the roots are killed. Some farmers think the crop is entirely destroyed, while others consider the damage light. About one-fourth of the arable land in the county is sown in fall grain. If the crops are destroyed, we will have to ship spring wheat for seed. There is scarcely any in the county. One dollar per bushel has been offered for spring for the past two weeks.

Douglas.

ROSEBURG, Feb. 15.—As far as heard from the grain in all localities is somewhat damaged by the recent cold spell. Lots of resowing will have to be done. Principally oats and barley.

Umatilla.

UMATILLA, Feb. 15.—The ground was warm when the heavy snowfall came. Just before the cold weather set in the snow was ten inches deep at Prospect, and fifteen inches about Weston, and protected the growing wheat fully against the severe cold. Farmers are satisfied that the past cold spell has not injured the crops, and the heavy snow is a decided benefit.

Cold weather continues. It is now 11 degrees above zero and a light dry snow two inches deep has fallen during the past two nights.

THE WALLA WALLA VALLEY.

WALLA WALLA, Feb. 15.—Interviews with prominent wheat buyers and growers confirm all expectations that this season's wheat crop will be the highest and best ever known in the annals of this country. Warm rains during the fall and early winter, followed by heavy snow, which had the effect of covering the grain up and preventing freezing, raises hope in the breast of every farmer unless something unlooked for happens. A Statesman reporter interviewing a grain raiser to-day was told to say that if things go as they have been, the boys would have $20 pieces to throw at the birds. This applies to Umatilla, Walla Walla, Columbia, Garfield, Whitman and Spokane counties, and also to northern Idaho. Fall sown grain could not look better.

Spokane.

CHENEY, W. T., Feb. 15.—But little winter wheat sown in the county; not more than 500 acres in the entire county, so the damage by the freeze is light. The thermometer is now above zero and the weather is steadily moderating.

KLICKITAT COUNTY NEWS.

GOLDENDALE, W. T., Feb. 9.

County commissioners court is in session.

The health of the community is excellent and very few deaths have occurred.

The stage company carries mail and passengers to The Dalles and Yakima in sleighs.

The public schools are closed for want of funds. Private classes are being taught, however.

D. D. McFall, dealer in general merchandise, has failed and made an assignment for the benefit of all creditors. Assets, $17,000; liabilities, $14,000.

Readers of THE OREGONIAN were repeatedly disappointed of late, as THE DAILY OREGONIAN has failed to reach us several times within two weeks, although other mail would come through. It seems like losing a friend to be without THE OREGONIAN even a day.

During the past week the weather has been intensely cold, and continues to be so, the mercury indicating from 18 to 30 degrees below zero. Pioneers of this country say that they never experienced such cold weather here except the winter of 1861-62. Snow is about ten inches deep, which is protecting the fall wheat, but it is hard on stock in general. Up to date not many have perished.

CITY.

CARP DISTRIBUTED.—The young carp sent out from the fish commission have all been distributed, and reports have been received of many lots reaching their destination in safety. Mr. W. S. Ladd, [illegible] yesterday, placed a number of them in a pond on his property on the east side. Capt. Harlow, who has ponds at Troutdale on the Sandy, has had them stocked with carp for several years, and now has thousands of young [illegible]. [illegible] the government should [illegible] and [illegible] sloughs and streams [illegible] to be raised on [illegible] to these [illegible] has [illegible] these garbage eating [illegible] be acceptable. Tons of fish, equal [illegible] the carp, are caught [illegible] the river here, and [illegible] where they are readily [illegible]. No white [illegible] ever thinks of eating them.

SAFETY CATCH.—A safety clutch [illegible] fixed to the elevator [illegible] A. Mackay's [illegible] and works like a charm. The rope having been detached the elevator was allowed to [illegible] twice and was each time [illegible]. When the [illegible] of the [illegible] that an elevator should [illegible] without it. The [illegible] of two knives or points held by a spring, which [illegible] forced [illegible] its ascent and descent [illegible] spring is [illegible] a governor, [illegible] steel springs [illegible] the centre. This governor [illegible] move, and should the motion be [illegible] the rapid [illegible] out drawing in the [illegible] attached and thus [illegible] the spring [illegible] strikes the knives [illegible] the posts, thus checking the elevator.

BEEF PRICES.—A farmer up the valley yesterday telegraphed to a butcher here that the price of a band of cattle he had for sale was 5 cents per pound live weight. This is the same as 12 cents dead, and is a pretty steep price for beef at wholesale. If this sort of thing continues stockmen may consider the increase of their herds as veritable golden calves, and will be sticking them up for us to worship. When beefsteak gets up to 25 cents a pound it will begin to come in fashion as an ornament for the mantel piece instead of the gridiron. The stock in eastern Oregon is coming out all right, having managed to scratch fodder enough on the sunny sides of gulches to keep them alive. One reason why no cattle have been received from that section is that the weather has been so cold that stockmen would not venture out to gather them in from the range.

OPERETTA.—The beautiful operetta, entitled "The Blacksmith's Children," will be produced at Masonic hall to-night, February 16th, under the auspices of the Band of Hope of this city. This is one of those pleasing operettas written expressly for children, and cannot fail to please. The solo cast and chorus is sustained by small boys and girls, members of the Band of Hope, which adds a great deal to the novelty of the entertainment. The operetta is under the direction of Mr. H. N. Donaldson, which insures its artistic success. A special matinee will be given Saturday at 2 o'clock to accommodate the school children.

VICTIM NO. 1.—Richard Durkin was arrested yesterday by Policeman Beaumont for backing his express wagon up to the sidewalk. This is the first arrest under the new ordinance in regard to the matter. As it has been stated that the council contemplated a change in the ordinance, Judge Moreland took the case under advisement for a week. Some of the teamsters find fault with this ordinance while others claim that it is a good one. It is certain that something must be done to prevent blockades on the business streets and the only practicable thing seems to be to make truckmen haul up along side the sidewalk.

JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF.—The case of Harry Higley, formerly engineer of the Gazette, against Sam Caples, for wages while in the latter's employ, was decided yesterday in favor of the plaintiff, the jury having returned a verdict in full for the amount claimed—$167. A local item in yesterday's OREGONIAN, referring to a remark of Judge Halleray, who presided over this case, was not intended to convey the impression that the case was not "clean," though from Judge Halleray's bon mot such inference might be drawn. It was simply a suit to recover wages, and the result shows that the claim was just.

AMUSED JURORS.—The twelve jurors in the case of Higley vs Caples, tried in the circuit court on Wednesday, amused themselves by comparing notes after a verdict had been arrived at. Some idea of the heterogeneous nature of the population of this section can be derived from the following statement of nativities: From New York 2, Massachusetts 1, Ohio 2, Tennessee 2, Virginia 1, Kentucky 1, Rhode Island 1, Canada 1, Germany 1. The combined ages of the twelve amounted to 682 years, being an average of 56 years and 10 months. It is very seldom that so old a jury is impaneled.

LAND COMPANY INCORPORATED.—Articles of incorporation of the Portland Land company were filed in the county clerk's office yesterday by Joseph Simon, Chas. E. Sitton and Seneca Smith. The business in which the corporation proposes to engage is buying, holding, building upon, grading, leasing, mortgaging, and conveying real estate, and a general trading discount and brokerage business, and constructing and operating both cable and street railways. The principal office is in the city of Portland and the capital stock $150,000 in shares of $100.

CASE OF QUIEN SABE.—A horse belonging to G. S. H. Jackson died near the corner of Second and Main streets on Tuesday night, and at noon yesterday had not been removed, notwithstanding that Jackson had been notified to attend to the matter. Yesterday a warrant was sworn out in the police court for Jackson's arrest. Jackson claims that he has not been able to ascertain where the carcass should be deposited, and that as soon as any of the city officials will inform him where it can be left he will have it removed.

INDICTED.—The grand jury found a true bill in the case of J. W. Henry, who was held to answer in Justice Bushwiler's court in the sum of $200 on a charge of larceny by bailee. Henry is a hotel keeper at Albina, and it was charged that he converted to his own use the proceeds of a check left in his charge. He was arrested by Sheriff Sears, his bail having been fixed at $500. Up to a late hour yesterday he had not been able to procure it and was confined in the county jail.

OBSTRUCTING SIDEWALKS.—Five Chinese merchants doing business on Second street between Morrison and Washington were arrested yesterday for obstructing the sidewalk. They each deposited $5 bail for their appearance in the police court to answer to the charge. If there proves to be no defect in the ordinance relating to the matter there will probably be more arrests made, and it may be that some Caucasian will be counted in.

TRYING HIS LUCK.—One Pat Sullivan, who was discharged from the city jail yesterday morning, was arrested last evening charged with assaulting Isaac Carson. It appears that Mr. Carson, who is a respectable elderly gentleman, was walking quietly along the street when Sullivan in passing him remarked, "I'll give you one just for luck," and knocked him down. He will try his luck in a tussle with Judge Moreland to-day.

TURNED BACK.—R. J. Reeves, who left here two weeks since to arrange for the opening of the First National bank at Baker City, has returned without having reached that place. On arriving at Pendleton he found the weather so cold that he concluded to stop there. With the thermometer at 36 degrees below zero there is no fun and plenty of danger in traveling.

HANDSOME BOOKS.—A complete set of books for the First National bank of Baker City was on view at the Portland Savings bank yesterday. They were manufactured to order in this city, and for beauty and excellence of workmanship in ruling, printing and binding cannot be surpassed.

CONTINUED.—The case of the United States vs. Wm. Martin, sheriff of Umatilla county, came up in the United States district court yesterday. It was set for trial on agreement as to the facts, but as neither party was prepared with the facts it was continued till to-day.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of Traver et al. vs. Baker.

BRIEF MENTION.

The General Miles leaves Astoria for Tillamook to-morrow.

J. Selling leaves on the next steamer to purchase his spring stock.

F. W. Stechhan leaves this morning for Astoria to meet the "Esmeralda" company.

It was rather early in the season, but a four oared shell was practicing on the river yesterday.

Judge Deady yesterday ordered that twenty-three grand jurors be summoned for his court, to appear on March 20th.

The grand jury yesterday found a true bill in the case of Columbus Duffy, charged with stealing D. D. Lavin's watch.

There will be a stated meeting of Portland lodge No. 55, A. F. & A. M. at their lodge room, Masonic Temple, this (Friday) evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Professor Condon lectures at the Congregational church this evening on "The Development Theory." A very interesting lecture may be counted on.

Two boys, Arthur Hopkins and Richard Morton, were arrested yesterday charged with stealing the halyards from George Smith's flag staff. They will be examined to-day before Justice Bushwiler.

PERSONAL.

Capt. Geo. D. Hill, of Seattle, is in the city.

Mrs. M. E. Miller, of Deschutes, Oregon, is in the city.

Hon. J. D. Lee, of Polk county, was in the city yesterday.

Mrs. Capt. J. D. Miller, formerly of Oregon City, is very sick at Walla Walla.

D. P. Dowell has returned from his trip to Seattle and New Tacoma. He is [illegible] pleased with both places but prefers to buy and [illegible] property in Portland. He says Portland is the [illegible] of the [illegible] coast.

NO SMALLPOX AT DAYTON.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DAYTON, W. T., Feb. 15.—Please correct the statement in THE OREGONIAN of yesterday, that Dayton has smallpox and strict quarantine. One family are in the pest house and they are from the country. Dayton is not quarantined and not likely to be.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

Second Day—Evening Session.

The court room was crowded to repletion.

President Loughary announced "Woman [illegible] Laws" as the subject under discussion, and [illegible] an apology for the [illegible] music. Thought it would be a grand thing to have in every court room the soothing influence of [illegible] for judges, lawyers and jurors, it would be beneficial to criminals, and would cheer the last hours of the felon who stands before the tribunals of justice to receive his death sentence. She then introduced Hon. B. F. Dennison, of Washington territory.

Judge Dennison proceeded in an [illegible], logical, and deliberative manner [illegible] rights for all [illegible] that as women have [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] rights [illegible] to the affairs of the state [illegible] [illegible] protection of the laws [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] "[illegible]"

[illegible] the speaker [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the easy places that are [illegible] [illegible] who part [illegible] be given to women who [illegible]. There was but one remedy for [illegible] [illegible], and that remedy was equality in civil law.

Mrs. Duniway was the next speaker. She said that Oregon has long been distinguished by her [illegible] of woman's equality with men before the law. In the year 1846, one of her future heroes and statesmen, the lamented Senator Baker, said, while a member of congress from Illinois, speaking in reference to the pioneer spirit that was at that time peopling the land where "rolls the Oregon", "It is a bold and free spirit. It has in it the elements of grandeur. They will march, not

> To stop too fearful, and too faint to go."

But they will go with free steps! They will form a Pacific empire." How faithfully the great man prophesied, let the facts of the past quarter of a century bear testimony. In 1850, Hon. Samuel R. Thurston, delegate to congress from Oregon territory, following out the noble suggestions of Dr. Linn, after whom the county of Linn was named, succeeded in championing and securing the passage through congress of the famous Donation land act, this act being the first on record in any part of the United States' jurisdiction, wherein the individual right of any married woman to the ownership of real estate was recognized. This act, though limited in duration and circumscribed in many ways to meet the customary conditions of the times, was the first practical step ever taken in this so-called "government of the people" toward establishing the system of law of which you have heard to-night.

The various steps of progress in law-making for women by the Oregon legislature during the past ten years were carefully gone over and the growth of public sentiment analyzed. As Oregon had been the first part of the United States domain to recognize the individual property rights of married women, so it was meet and proper that she should become the first state in the Union to recognize woman's equality with man at the ballot-box.

Third Day—Morning Session.

Called to order at usual hour, Mrs. Loughary in the chair.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

On motion the convention went into committee of the whole, and Mrs. J. DeVore Johnson was called to the chair.

Mr. Cady, of Kansas, being invited to give information relative to the proper methods of arranging the work, suggested that the state be divided into districts, and every vote canvassed and understood before election day. He knew the efficiency of documents properly bearing on the question, when placed in the hands of opponents, but was aware that money would be required for that purpose and many others.

Mrs. Mary Shane Smith suggested that some appropriate person be appointed to approach wealthy men to secure their assistance in raising a campaign fund.

Mrs. Torrey advocated the raising of committees, as suggested by Mr. Cady.

Mrs. J. DeVore Johnson saw no prospect of success except through the thorough canvass of the state by residents in every school district.

Mr. Byrne suggested the necessity of appointing influential members upon the finance committee whose standing before the public was acknowledged.

Mrs. F. O. McCown being called for, said she was not a success at raising money.

Judge Dennison gave some valuable advice; thought a strong committee should be appointed, not all to be residents of Portland, who should have large discretionary power. This committee should themselves engage in the work. An address should be prepared and sent to every voter in the state. Much can be accomplished by correspondence. He believes the voters, if properly approached, will contribute liberally.

Dr. West suggested popular entertainments at different times for raising funds.

Mrs. Duniway suggested that a central finance committee, consisting of five persons, be appointed to devise means to raise funds for the coming campaign. Employ speakers, circulate papers and documents, and oversee the work generally.

Mrs. Smith moved the formation of such a committee, and that Mrs. Duniway be appointed chairman with power to nominate her associates.

After some discussion the motion was adopted.

Adjourned till 2 P. M.

Afternoon Session.

Called to order by Mrs. Duniway.

Mrs. J. G. Shindler favored the convention in an earnest and eloquent address in favor of active work for the equal rights movement. She fairly electrified her auditors with her womanly enthusiasm.

Mrs. J. K. Hardie followed with a spirited essay, in which she expressed herself ready for active work in future for the cause. She also gave a remarkable quotation from Marquis de Condorcet.

Mrs. T. W. Davenport also read an excellent and vigorous essay.

Mrs. Duniway nominated as members of the central financial committee the following ladies and gentlemen, who, after some discussion, were confirmed:

Mrs. H. A. Loughary of Yamhill, Mrs. A. E. Torrey of Multnomah, Hon. W. T. Owens of Douglas, Hon. M. Baker of Union.

Mr. Byrne reported a resolution of importance for the regulation of this committee's duties, which was adopted without debate.

The association then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, with the following result:

President, Mrs. H. A. Loughary (re-elected); vice-president-at-large, Mrs. A. S. Duniway (re-elected); recording secretary, Miss Mary Combs; corresponding secretary, Miss Anna Fearnside (re-elected); treasurer, Mrs. E. Johnson (re-elected).

Mrs. G. Shindler was chosen as the fifth member of the executive committee, the other members being the president, vice-president and the secretaries.

Adjourned till 7 P. M.

Evening Session.

Met at 7:30 o'clock, President Loughary in the chair.

A piano and violin duet by Misses Fearnside and McCord was rendered in excellent style.

Mrs. Duniway, upon arriving, took the chair and announced, as the first speech of the evening, an argument by Mrs. Loughary, "The Patrick Henry of the new dispensation."

The lady was received with applause. Her address was replete with logic, brim full of feeling, and bristled through and through with kindly but telling points. She concluded her argument in favor of equal rights and justice for women, with a strong appeal to men to help their wives and mothers to "establish justice and insure domestic tranquility" by and through the power of the ballot, which they prize so highly that they are ready to fight, and, if need be, die, to secure its blessings for themselves and sons.

A song by Mrs. H. W. Scott and Professor Donaldson evoked an enthusiastic encore, to which the lady and gentleman gracefully and acceptably responded.

Mrs. J. DeVore Johnson read an amusing character sketch, which also received an encore.

Rev. J. A. Gray was introduced as the next speaker. His address was an admirable digest of the mental differences between the sexes, well interblended with amusing illustrations and dignified reflections. The ballot was woman's rightful heritage, and she would surely get it. Oregon's sons were proud of her present pre-eminence in the cause, and would make it permanent at the ballot box in 1884. If woman had not equaled man in inventive genius, it was because she had not until recently enjoyed equal educational advantages with himself. Women were growing tired of fashion and folly and all the barbarisms of civilization. They were learning to think, and thought was leading them into the science of government.

Mrs. Duniway made the closing speech. She said the star spangled banner was invented by a woman. That woman was Betsy Ross, of Philadelphia, and that flag was the grandest inspiration of its kind in beauty, symmetry and symbolism that ever floated in the blue breezes of heaven. A woman—Anna Ella Carroll—had planned the Tennessee campaign. A man—Ulysses S. Grant—had borne away its honors. Congress had refused to recognize the woman who had engineered its country's battles, but the reunited country was reaping the fruits of her genius.

Mrs. D. closed with an effective appeal for money to aid the Oregon campaign. The women were planning to reach the voters with arguments, education and power, and they needed money, which must come from the educated classes who were willing to bestow it. A liberal collection was taken up, followed by several cash subscriptions, which were given into the hands of the financial committee, who are instructed to report at the closing session, 10:30 A. M. to-day.

At East Portland this Evening.

The convention will hold a session this evening in [illegible] hall, East Portland, to which the public, on both sides of the river, is cordially invited.

THE WIFE KILLER.

Peter Desgranges, of Spokane County Now Denies that He Shot His Wife—An Improbable Story.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CHENEY, W. T., Feb. 15.—Peter Desgranges, who is charged with killing his wife at [illegible], Spokane county, W. T., is now in confinement here. At the coroner's inquest, held at [illegible] after the shooting, the evidence showed [illegible]. The prisoner had been married [illegible] a few months and was intensely jealous of his wife, and [illegible] doubt as to her chastity [illegible]. On the day his wife was killed, he went [illegible] and quarreled with her [illegible], shooting her in the head, killing her instantly, after which he shot himself in the head and was found in an [illegible] condition by neighbors. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that her death was caused by his hands. Upon recovering consciousness he admitted killing his wife. [illegible] was brought here [illegible] [illegible] head, though the ball still remains in the skull at the back of the head. An extra guard is kept in jail, as an attempt at lynching by his friends is feared. Knowing that his health is improving and that he will not die, he stoutly maintains his innocence, and says on the day of the murder he was out practicing with his revolver in a company of friends, and had but one charge in the revolver. When he called on his wife, he was talking with her in a back room when some one outside fired through the window, striking his wife, who fell to the floor. He drew his revolver in defense, but had scarcely done so when a shot struck him in the head. He was too fond of her to think of murdering her, and can prove that he had only one charge in his revolver when he went home.

The general opinion is that Desgranges killed his wife and then attempted suicide. He is in jail awaiting the action of the grand jury.

FATAL QUARREL.

A Spokane County Farmer Kills a Neighbor in a Quarrel over Rails—Probable Case of Self-Defense.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Feb. 15.—Yesterday morning, Geo. Capps, of Capps' postoffice, shot and instantly killed Jim Whitney, a rancher of Tamarac canyon. Capps had been cutting timber on Whitney's place, and the latter warned him off. A dispute followed, which resulted in Capps' shooting Whitney through the heart. Whitney was a single man and had relatives in Oregon. Capps has not been arrested. The shooting occurred on Whitney's ranch about five miles from Courtright.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

CHENEY, W. T., Feb. 15.—Wednesday about noon, G. W. Capps, a farmer in Tamarac canyon, Spokane county, shot and killed James Whitney, an adjoining farmer. The trouble arose about a few rails which Capps had cut on government land, which Whitney afterwards took up and was living upon. After killing Whitney, Capps gave himself up to the authorities and made the following statement:

"When Whitney moved on the place I had a talk with him concerning rails. He agreed to me taking them away; went there for that purpose, when he ordered me off the place, and picking up a club, said if I did not leave he would beat my brains out, at the same time coming toward me with the club in his hands. I had been hunting prairie chickens and had a single barrel shotgun with me, loaded with fine shot. When I saw Whitney meant to carry out his threat, I raised the gun and fired, the shot penetrating his left breast and passing clear through his body. He died a few moments afterwards."

Whitney came to this country about four months ago from the Willamette valley and immediately moved on the aforesaid land. He had a bad reputation in Oregon, and served a sentence of five years in the state penitentiary for arson. He was 34 years old and unmarried. A coroner's inquest is now in progress at the scene of the trouble. The verdict will reach here to-morrow.

PRISONERS ESCAPED.

Sheriff Martin, of Umatilla county, who is here on trial in the United States court, on a charge of resisting the process of the United States laws, has received information that five prisoners escaped from the jail at Pendleton, Wednesday night. Their names and descriptions are as follows:

Robert Draper, aged 30 years, dark complexion, 180 pounds weight, dark moustache, harsh, sharp voice, English sailor tattooed on arms, hazel eyes.

James Ashworth, 22 years, 6 feet 1 inch, 150 pounds, black hair, very little beard, little round shouldered.

Benjamin Johnson, 22 years, 5 feet 5 or 6 inches, rather fair complexion, dark hair, very round face, little or no beard, small eyes.

Several of the above persons were confined on charges of horse stealing. If all accounts are true about the prevailing weather in that section, they may be expected to return for shelter. With the thermometer from 20 to 40 degrees below zero, they will probably find that it was a cold day when they strayed away.

THE SHAM AND THE REAL.

Every good thing has its host of imitators; every genuine article its counterfeits. Bad manners and wicked habits have theirs also; but he who shams the bad never boasts of it, while they who ape the virtues of the good or simulate the genuine never hesitate to place the counterfeit before the public in their most alluring forms. When these people imitate they always choose a renowned type or popular subject to copy from, and when they claim to be as "good as so-and-so" or to sell an article equal to "So-and-So" the public may depend upon it that Mr. "So-and-So" and his article are always the best of the kind. Thus the sham is always proving the genuine merit of the thing it copies.

A firm of enterprising gentlemen produce and popularize an article of household use, such as the Royal Baking Powder, whose convenience, usefulness and real merit make for itself an immense and universal sale. A hundred imitators arise on every hand, and as they hold out their sham articles to the public, yelp in chorus, "Buy this: it's just as good as Royal, and much cheaper." The Royal Baking Powder is the standard the world over, and its imitators in their cry that theirs is "as good as Royal" are all the time emphasizing this fact. In their laborious attempts to show by analysis and otherwise that the "Snowball" brand has as much raising power "as the Royal;" or that the "Resurrection" powder is as wholesome "as Royal;" or that the "Earthquake" brand is "as pure as the Royal," as well as by their contortive twistings of chemical certificates and labored efforts to obtain recognition from the government chemists and prominent scientists who have certified the superiority of Royal over all others, they all admit the "Royal" to be the acme of perfection, which it is their highest ambition to imitate. But the difference between the real and these imitations, which copy only its general appearance, is as wide as that between the paste and the true diamond. The shams all pay homage to the "Royal."

SENTENCE POSTPONED.

Counsel for Alfred Andersen Move for a New Trial—Hearing of the Argument Continued Till Monday Next.

Yesterday having been set as the day for pronouncing a sentence of death on Alfred Andersen, convicted of the murder of his mother, the circuit court room at the hour of opening court was crowded with spectators. The prisoner was brought into court by Sheriff Sears. Judge Balleray of the [illegible] district took the bench and announced that [illegible] sentence upon Alfred Andersen at half past one o'clock.

Mr. Chapman, of counsel for Andersen, stated that a motion had been filed for a new trial.

The court knew nothing about such motion, and Mr. Marshall, court clerk, stated that such motion had not been filed.

A few minutes later Mr. Gregory, of counsel for Andersen, filed with Mr. Marshall the following motion for a new trial:

In the circuit court of the state of Oregon for Multnomah county.

The state of Oregon, plaintiff, vs. Alfred Andersen, defendant.

Now at this time comes the above named Alfred Andersen by W. M. Gregory and J. C. Chapman, his attorneys and moves the court in arrest of judgment and to set aside the verdict of the jury in said action, and to grant a new trial therein for the following reasons, viz:

First: The insufficiency of the evidence to justify the verdict, and that the verdict is against law.

Secondly: Error in law occurring during and at the trial and excepted to at the time by the defendant Alfred Andersen.

Thirdly: Misconduct of the district attorney and his assistant during the trial of said case, excepted to at the time by said defendant.

ALFRED ANDERSEN,
By W. M. Gregory and J. C. Chapman, his attorneys.

Afternoon Session.

At half past one o'clock the court room was crowded to its utmost capacity, even the aisles being occupied by men standing.

Judge Stott did not appear until half past one o'clock, and after hearing a verdict in a civil case and some other proceedings, the case of Andersen was taken up. The motion of the attorneys for Andersen, as given above, was submitted. Accompanying the same was an affidavit, filed since one o'clock, by Mr. Gregory, in which he swore that Mr. Mulkey said in his argument in reference to Andersen not testifying in the case, that "the man stands dumb before the law," or words to that effect.

Mr. Caples said that he had not seen this affidavit before, but he would undertake to deny the use of this language most emphatically.

Mr. Mulkey sat down and commenced to prepare an affidavit in response to that of Mr. Gregory.

Meanwhile the court instructed the attorneys to go on with the argument on the motion.

Mr. Chapman proceeded to address the court in support of the motion for a new trial.

Mr. Mulkey finished and filed his affidavit denying that the language used referred in any way, directly or indirectly, to the failure of the defendant to testify in his case.

Mr. Chapman concluded his argument in favor of the motion for a new trial and was followed by Mr. Mulkey, who spoke at some length, but before his argument was concluded he was interrupted by Judge Stott, who stated that he had not supposed that the argument would take up so much time, and that as there were present the lawyers and witnesses in a case from Wasco county, which had been set for trial on that day, he would adjourn the further hearing of the argument till Monday next.

Andersen, after being taken back to his cell, seemed much more cheerful and hopeful.

> "The heart bowed down by weight of woe
> To faintest hope will cling."

Andersen's show for getting a new trial is deemed by many a very poor one, but his counsel are quite confident, and if it is refused here, have still a resort to the supreme court.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

Vancouver Independent.

Surgeon F. L. Town has arrived down from Fort Walla Walla and reported for duty.

Lt. J. S. Park has relieved Lt. J. W. Duncan from duty with Co. C, 21st Inf., at Fort Klamath.

Capt. Frank Taylor, 1st Art., left on Tuesday's steamer for San Francisco, on leave of absence.

Capt. John C. White, 1st Art., is spending his sick leave at San Diego, Cal. He will not return for some time.

Lt. Col. E. Sparrow, 21st Inf., returned from Fort Klamath on Thursday, where he has been on court martial duty.

Private Paul Winkler, K Co., 21st Inf., has received his warrant as hospital steward, and has been assigned to temporary duty at the post.

Mr. Geo. P. Sears has resigned his position at headquarters, to take effect at the end of the month, and will go into business in Vancouver.

Assistant Surgeon M. W. Woods, U. S. A., at present on leave from Fort Brady, Mich., will shortly report to General Miles at Vancouver barracks for duty.

W. B. Patterson, department printer, will leave for San Francisco on the next steamer with military prisoners, and will bring his wife home on the return trip.

Asst. Surg. C. L. Heizmann will report for duty at headquarters of the department of the south; Dr. Heizmann departed for San Francisco on Saturday's steamer, en route to Newport, Ky.

Lieut. J. W. Duncan, 21st Infantry, who has been stationed at Fort Klamath for several months, returned to Vancouver barracks on Friday last. He had a very cold trip over the mountains, the mercury being below zero during most of the ride.

LAKE COUNTY NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

LAKEVIEW, Feb. 8.

But little sickness prevails and that is scarlet rash.

Goose lake is frozen so that loaded teams can cross on the ice.

Roads are reported good leading to this point and the stages arrive regularly.

The sawmills have been getting logs preparatory to making a good run next summer.

We have been without a physician for a few weeks, but expect one in a few days.

If part of the tide of emigration to this coast was directed here we can make room for it.

Cold, freezing weather prevails, the mercury sometimes descending as low as 20 degrees below zero.

What snow has fallen did not remain long, the ground in the valleys being bare except where there are drifts.

Stock of all kinds looks better than ever before at this season of the year. Sheep that are kept on the desert between Lake Abert and Harney valley are fat.

FAIR PLAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me a brief space in your paper to make a suggestion for school director. Under the recent act enlarging the boundaries of school district No. 1, nearly all of district No. 7 (known as Watson's addition) has been absorbed in district No. 1. The school house and all the real property of the district have become the property of district No. 1. Now the inhabitants of the north end feel that they ought to have one member of the enlarged board of directors from that section. Is it any more than "fair play?" Mr. Nicholas Versteeg, a member of the old board from the lost district, has been suggested as the person. He is every way qualified and the people of the north end want him, and shall they not be heard in their reasonable request?

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 16, 1883.

THE BRANSON CASE.

In the Supreme Court of the State of Oregon, October Term, 1882.

COPY OF THE OPINION OF THE COURT

In the case of B. B. Branson, W. S. Powell and W. S. Frink, respondents, vs The Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad Company, The Willamette Valley Railroad Company, The Oregon Railway Company, Limited, The Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, Joseph Gaston, Ellis J. Hughes, William Reid, and J. B. Montgomery, Appellants.—Appeal from Yamhill county.

SYLLABUS.

1. The provisions in the constitution and statutes of Oregon, creating the liability of stockholders in private corporations, for the indebtedness of such corporations, apply to holders of the legal title in unpaid stock.

2. The ratification of an unauthorized act or contract, professedly done or entered into on behalf of a corporation, may be inferred from its subsequent conduct in respect thereto, the same as if it were a natural person.

3. The amounts specified in contracts to pay definite sums of money, with a certain rate of interest on or before stated periods, in freight and passage over the promisor's railroad, become due, together with the stipulated interest, at once, in money, upon the failure of the promisor to comply with the terms of its agreement, and its depriving itself of the power to comply with it, by the sale and disposal of its railroad.

4. The supreme court has power, under section 100 of the civil code, to entertain an application to relieve a party from a decree taken against it "through its mistake, inadvertence, surprise or excusable neglect," and appealed before it has had an opportunity to make the application to the lower court, by which the decree was rendered, and upon setting such decree aside, upon such application, it is also within its power to remand the cause for further proceedings in accordance with its decision.

The court after pronouncing this judgment to be substantially correct if the case were to be decided on the pleadings, observes:

This virtually disposes of the objections to the decree of the court below, as to all the appellants except Reid and Montgomery. It is admitted by the pleadings that Gaston, Hughes, the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, and the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, took and held the legal title to the 5000 shares of the unpaid capital stock, amounting to $500,000, of the Willamette Valley Railroad Company, successively, in the order in which they are named.

Upon their liability, on this ground alone, the decree of the circuit court may well be sustained. But neither Reid nor Montgomery is alleged to have ever held the legal right to any of this stock. Their liability depends upon the construction to be given to a certain undertaking of indemnity, executed by them, Hughes and the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, to and in favor of Gaston, on April 2, 1880. Hughes was, and since December 29, 1879, had been, holding the legal title to the stock before mentioned, and all other rights, interests, and claims belonging to Gaston, in, to, or against either the Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad Company, or the Willamette Valley Railroad Company, in trust, under certain written assignments, executed to him by Gaston, to dispose of or transfer to any person, or corporation, who or which might provide the means to pay off, or the indemnity against, certain debts and liabilities of Gaston's, in such written assignments specified, and also to make some other payments and provisions, not material to be considered here.

The undertaking of indemnity, after reciting the terms and object of the assignment to Hughes and that the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, had been incorporated and organized, by Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, for the "express purpose of receiving a transfer, assignment, and conveyance," of said capital stock, &c., from Hughes, as such trustee, and complying with the terms (specifying them), upon which Huges was authorized to make such transfer; and that Hughes, in pursuance of his trust, and, "at the special instance and request," and for the "joint and several personal interest, benefit and advantage" of said Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, "had by a deed of assignment of even date," "duly assigned, transferred and let over, to the said Oregon Railway Company, Limited, all and singular, the said railroad capital stock, rights, interests, claims and demands, &c.," and declaring that in the execution of such undertaking of idemnity they act "as private individuals acting for themselves," and to promote "their private and personal interests in the said Oregon Railway Company, Limited, &c.," proceeds as follows: "We do hereby contract and agree to pay off and discharge all the debts and liabilities of the said J. Gaston, J. Gaston & Co., which may have been incurred for, or arising out of the construction of the said Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad and its Dallas branch, and J. Gaston, and the Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad Company incurred for labor or material furnished or used in the construction or operation of the said Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad and its said Dallas branch. So as to save harmless, in all respects, the said J. Gaston, and J. Gaston & Co., from all pecuniary liability whatever upon all and every matter, or thing of every description, incurred for, or arising out of the construction or operation of the said Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad, and its Dallas branch." This undertaking also contains an express declaration that all the covenants and agreements therein on the part of Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, "are made for and on behalf of the Oregon Railway Company, Limited." Such is the part of the obligation upon which the court below decreed the liability of Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, as guarantees of the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, in respect to the covenants therein expressed in Gaston's favor. This portion of the decree is, in our judgment, erroneous.

Gaston's having, at one time, been the legal owner of the unpaid capital stock before mentioned, and having made a voluntary sale and transfer thereof, constituted the only grounds of his liability for the demands of the respondents in this suit.

There is no provision in this obligation indemnifying him against such a liability. The Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railroad Company became indebted individually for the amounts subscribed and paid, for which the "freight receipts" were issued.

As soon as the amounts subscribed became payable, under the terms of subscription, by the progress of the work of construction, it belonged to Gaston under the stipulations in his contract with the company, and never became a debt against him or against him and the company "arising out of the construction of said railroad." It never was a debt or liability of his own, individually, or of his and the company's together; against which only the obligation undertakes to indemnify him. And if the money so received by him, and expended in procuring "labor and material" used in the construction and equipment of the railroad, could by any possible interpretation be held to be included in the description, "labor and material used in the construction and equipment of said railroad," still it would avail him nothing, for it is evident that he incurred no indebtedness or liability on account of it. Such being our view of the effect of this undertaking of indemnity, it follows that the decree against Reid and Montgomery should be reversed.

We come now to the consideration of the motion to remand. Hughes as the attorney of the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, appeared for it in this suit, and filed its answer herein to the complaint, verified by himself as its attorney, for the reason assigned in his affidavit of verification, "that none of the officers of said company, either the president, secretary, treasurer, or any of the directors are now within the State of Oregon." This answer was filed July 21, 1882.

It contained an express admission of the truth of the allegation, in the amended complaint, that said capital stock was transferred to said company on December 11, 1880, and did not controvert the further allegation in said amended complaint in respect to such stock that such "corporation is now the owner thereof."

As we have already said, these admissions in the pleadings exhibit this company as the legal owner and last holder of said unpaid capital stock, and establish its primary liability as fixed by the decree of the circuit court. On the same day the answer was filed a stipulation also was filed, subscribed by the respondent's attorney, and by Hughes as attorney for said company, containing the same admission in substance.

In the joint and several answer of Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, and the separate answer of the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, both of which were filed in the suit by Hughes as attorney, the transfers of this stock to Hughes as trustee and then to the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, alleged in the amended complaint, are admitted, but in both said answers the claim is set up that said individuals and said corporation were acting throughout such transaction merely as the agents and sureties for their co-defendant, the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, and should, in no event, be held liable for the demands of the respondents.

It appears from Hughes' own deposition, taken on behalf of the appellants in the suit, as well as by the terms of the conveyance from the Oregon Railway Company to the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, of December 11, 1880, that those admissions of the transfer of stock to the latter from the former company, in the separate answer and stipulation referred to were incorrect and untrue in fact. As the equitable owners of the stock merely, the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, would not be liable to contribute to the payment of the respondent's demands. Mun. vs Currie, 2 Barb. 294; Adderly vs Storm, 6 Hill 628; Thompson's Liability of Stockholders, sections 178-9.

Still, if Hughes was the duly authorized agent of this company, in taking the legal title to this stock, in his own name, acting in good faith, and with such a degree of skill or prudence only, as was required of him in view of the matters and terms of his employment, as the company would be liable over to him for any loss sustained by him by reason of having taken and held such legal title for the company by its direction and all parties being before the court, it would seem entirely within the rules of equity to make the company liable in the first instance. But the principle in such case is to be reached only through its implied indemnity to its agent. If no agency existed, or if existing it has been exceeded and abused to such an extent as to preclude any recourse on such implied indemnity, by the agent himself, third parties claiming through him are equally precluded. But it is obvious that the alleged principal should be allowed an opportunity to make its defense before being adjudged liable. The pleadings in this suit presented no such issue neither was there any evidence introduced, that had any bearing upon the question, save that given by Hughes himself. On the motion to remand, the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited strenuously contends that Hughes was not its agent in the matter of taking and holding the legal title to this unpaid capital stock, and that whatever authority he did have to act as its agent, in purchasing such stock for it, was exceeded and abused to such an extent as to preclude any recovery he might otherwise have had against it; and particularly in this, that such purchase was authorized only on the condition that said stock was wholly and absolutely free from "all mortgages, debts, claims and encumbrances whatever, according to the laws of Oregon;" that Hughes and Reid, upon whom it relied, in this transaction, with full knowledge of all the facts, did represent the stock to it, as being thus free and unencumbered, and thereby induced it to take whatever action it did take in the premises. If this state of facts were established, it would constitute, assuming that the company never held the legal title in the unpaid capital stock, a good and complete defense for it in this suit. And whatsoever the actual facts may be, which a regular trial would develop, it is sufficient to say, in this place, that the party moving to remand, has presented ex parte proof in support of its motion, which, in connection with facts appearing in the record of the suit itself, in our judgment, clearly entitle it to be heard before its liability is finally determined—if it be not now too late to let in a defense on the merits.

The Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, was a foreign corporation incorporated and organized under the laws of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and having its principal place of business at Dundee, Scotland.

Service of the summons of this suit was made on Reid as its managing agent, in this state June 13, 1881, Hughes its regular attorney being absent. Reid procured other attorneys who appeared for it and filed a demurrer to the complaint, and continued to manage its defence, until Hughes' return. On this motion the company contends that it never had any notice of this suit, except such as may be implied from the knowledge of Reid and Hughes, as its managing agent and attorney, until after the decree in the circuit court had been rendered against it. The evidence on this point is conflicting. That it had no actual notice of the character of the defense made for it by Hughes, and of the admissions made in its answer in respect to the transfer of it, and its ownership of said unpaid capital stock, upon the proofs offered upon the motion to remand, seems to us pretty well established. From the time it is shown to have obtained actual notice of these facts, it is not chargeable with any laches in making efforts to have the decree opened up, and to be let in to make its defense on the merits. The case was already appealed, and pending in this court, and the company embraced the first opportunity to appear in court by other attorneys than Mr. Hughes, to make its application for such relief, by filing its motion to remand, together with the proofs in its support. Assuming that this court has the power to grant the relief sought by this motion, which we do not doubt in the least, in view of the provision made, in sections 100 and 534 of our civil code, the most serious objection to its exercise, in the present instance, is the fact that the party making the motion was represented by its duly authorized attorney in the suit when the damaging admissions, which it seeks to be relieved from, were made, and it has not been shown that he is insolvent or unable to respond in damages if found to be in fault in the matter, to the full amount of the decree against his principal.

The rule seems to be pretty well settled upon the decisions, that where an attorney appears for a party without authority, and fails to present his case properly; or having authority to appear, suffers judgment to be taken against his client by default, through negligence or misconduct on his own part, and the adverse party has acquired rights thereunder, and such attorney is able pecuniarily to respond for any damage or loss occasioned by his wrongful interference or misconduct, the court will not interfere to grant relief to the injured party, in a summary manner, on motion, but leave him to his recourse against the attorney individually. Denton vs. Noyes, 6 Johns, 296; Meacham vs. Dudley, 6 Wend., 514; American Ins. Co. vs. Oakley, 9 Paige, 496; Thomas vs. Jarden, 57 Pa. St., 331. But the facts in the case before us are not, in all respects, similar to those reported in any of the foregoing cases, or any other we have examined on the subject. In the case here, the respondents could not have been ignorant of the facts disclosed by the record itself, in the testimony given by Hughes, and in the terms of the conveyance of December 11, 1880, from the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, to the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, that the admissions in the separate answer of the latter, and in the stipulation filed at the same time, and by which the sole ground of the latter's liability alleged in their amended complaint was established, were not true in fact, and virtually fixed its liability on a ground which did not exist. They are chargeable with the knowledge that if these admissions were not justified by the facts, Hughes, as attorney, merely, for the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, without further express direction or under peculiar circumstances not claimed to have existed in this case, had no authority to make them, and that under such circumstances his interests in this regard were necessarily inimical to those of his client.

The same may be said concerning the claim of agency set up in the joint and several answers of Reid, Montgomery and Hughes, and the separate answer of the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, so far as it may be supposed to have influenced the course taken by the respondents in the case.

They are chargeable with the knowledge that Hughes, as attorney merely, had no right to thus place his client between them and himself, and make it primarily liable, and without special authority to do it, it having no other representative in the suit besides himself. At most, respondents in equity and good conscience, which we understand furnishes the rule in such cases, can only claim that the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, has made default in this matter while the course of such default and the facts excusing it have been all along known to them. "Adverse parties" could hardly "acquire rights" under such circumstances that should preclude an innocent party, without laches, from having the default set aside, and being allowed a hearing upon the merits, upon such terms as justice might demand.

Besides, the large amount of this decree, in this instance over $35,000, in view of the fact that there has been no showing before us as to Mr. Hughes' ability to respond for so large a sum, with accumulating interest and costs of litigation if he should ultimately be adjudged liable therefor in separate action between the Oregonian Railway Company, Limited, and himself, prevents us from presuming that in such an event the company would have ample recourse.

Whatever doubts we may have entertained at any time as to the propriety of making the remand have been, in no inconsiderable manner relieved by the declared willingness on the part of Mr. Hughes for himself and co-defendants, for whom he appeared on the appeal, that such order, if within the power of the court, should be made with leave to all parties to reframe their pleadings so as to present the real merits of the case as between the appellants.

It is, therefore, our opinion that the decree in this cause should be set aside, with leave to all parties to amend their pleadings in accordance with the views hereinbefore expressed, and upon such terms and under such directions as the circuit court shall order.

Respondents to have costs and disbursements of appeal.

WALDO, J.

I am of the opinion the Oregonian Railway company, limited, would be liable under the law to contribute towards the satisfaction of the judgments of the respondents, which form the basis of this suit, by reason having been the holder of the legal title to the unpaid stock, subsequent to the recovery of such judgments, whether the "freight receipts" are to be deemed contracts to pay in money, after failure to pay in freight and passage according to their terms, or simple contracts to carry freight and passengers, as I am inclined to think they are.

The ladies of the M. E. church have [illegible] the festival announced for Friday evening.

Hon. R. P. Boise, of this city, has been appointed notary public for the ensuing two years.

Hon. I. W. [illegible] the [illegible] association, [illegible].

C. M. Smith, of this city, has been [illegible] one of the scholarships in the State university at Eugene city.

Albany Lodge No. 315, I. O. of B. B. have filed articles of incorporation in the office of secretary of state with Leon Sears, M. Toyser and G. A. Flegiman as the operators. Capital stock $[illegible].

John A. Farnham of Red Bluff, Cal., is in the city superintending the management of his store on Commercial street. He will hereafter divide his time between here and Red Bluff, where he is running a large establishment.

Al Zieber of your city has been in Salem for several days and it is rumored is negotiating for the lease of the Chemeketa hotel for a term of years. With the urbane Zieber at the helm the Chemeketa would stand at the head of the list of Oregon hotels. We hope the rumor is correct.

The state board of education has secured the services of Judge C. E. Moor and wife of Benton county to take charge of the blind school, when it is opened in this city. The couple are highly spoken of and the board has been favored in securing their services. The school will be opened about the 1st of April.

Goldsmith & Loewenberg have commenced active operations at their stove foundry at the prison. The genial Louis Kuhn is on the ground superintending affairs and hopes in a short time to have matters running along smoothly. The O. & C. R. R. contemplate the early construction of a side track out to the works and the industry promises to be beneficial to the interests of Salem and the state at large.

The Salem water company having purchased a piece of ground on the south side of Mill creek, just below the covered bridge, will at an early day commence the erection of a pump house thereon with the suction leading across the slough and through the lower part of sand island into the channel of the river above the city. They will have duplex pumps of the latest improved patterns which will be run by means of an endless chain connected with the water power at the agricultural works. In order, however, to provide against accident they will also have a heavy engine and pumps, and thus insure a constant supply of water at all seasons and under all ordinary circumstances. They will eventually pump directly into the mains. The company show a laudable degree of enterprise in their undertaking.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

THURSDAY, Feb. 15.

The change in the weather has had a healthy effect upon trade in all directions. Navigation having opened and rail traffic having been resumed, orders are being filled promptly. Receipts of produce at this point show quite an increase except in wheat. Flour to fill ships at wharves has been received freely. The smaller lines of produce show increased business.

The last charter effected in this market was the Trevelyan, for flour. Several ships are available, but as no wheat can be had nothing is done. A few vessels may be taken for flour, but the wheat exporting season is considered virtually ended. At San Francisco freights have advanced, while ships are holding out for still higher rates. The list of vessels on way here is very light. The latest taking at San Francisco is a wooden ship for U. K. at 42s 6d.

The wheat market remains in an inactive state, and no transactions whatever are reported here. Mills continue to buy small lots in the interior, at prices which are reported above supposed market values. While we cannot quote over $1 60 here, yet it is doubtful if holders would take that in the present condition of other markets. All advices to-day are of a strong and healthy tone. To-day 49s 6d was offered for a wooden cargo at present going in here, but the holder asks more.

Flour firm at the recent advance. Oats steadily held with no quotable change in values. Mill feed unchanged. Hay shows an advance, with visible supply rapidly lessening.

Potatoes higher, values affected by large quantities being frozen. Eighty-five cents was paid in market to-day to fill orders. Onions very scarce, with stock concentrated.

Apples show slight advance. A small shipment has been received from California, yet we continue to send away. Oranges, some lower. Dried fruits in fair request at steady values. No pears in.

Butter, steady, with supply about equal to requirements. Eggs, lower; yet stocks are not large. Chickens, only steady at the decline. No ducks in market.

Wool markets at the east show more strength, as will be seen by reports below. Very little now here, and we quote higher.

Receipts of produce for the past 24 hours have been, from the valley, 2371 ctls wheat, 1020 bbls flour, 380 ctls oats. From Eastern Oregon, 500 bbls flour.

Reports from the interior would indicate total fall-sown wheat has been damaged by the late cold weather, as the ground is frozen to the depth of several inches. Until the ground thaws thoroughly nothing like a reliable estimate can be formed of the damage. Several interior papers report whole fields ruined, which will necessitate re-sowing. Best informed parties assert that it is too early to anticipate any important failure, as the plant, with growing weather, is likely to receive fresh impetus and come out in splendid shape. Much depends upon the weather to come, and indications point to warm rains. Should it be necessary to re-seed fields, farmers will find it difficult to procure seed, as they have cleaned their granaries, except that actually needed to sow fields. Further and more reliable data is anxiously awaited here. From eastern Oregon and Washington there has been no particular complaint had, as snow was generally experienced.

San Francisco Market Review.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—Wheat is very stiff and active, with sales at $2 02½ for this season's delivery. Barley, a little better. Oats unchanged. Bran, a trifle easier, at $15 50 to $16. The wool trade continues good. Shipments to the east in January was 1,690,000 pounds. The advance in the English market, together with the brighter prospects caused by the general rains throughout the state, has given tone to all the produce markets. Wheat is strong, and holders of bags now ask an advance, though no transactions are reported. There is little change in the market for general merchandise, though a stronger tone is exhibited in quicksilver and coffee. Salmon continues irregular, with sales of Columbia river reported as low as $1 30 delivered here for shipment east. Packers still claim that these prices are below ruling rates, and quote at $1 25 and $1 30 for Columbia river for export.

MARCH ON, MARCH ON TO VICTORY

Under date of Nov. 21, 1882, Mr. Albert W. Handy, of Pratt and Whitney Company, Hartford, Conn., writes:

"Having been a great sufferer from a severe attack of Kidney Disease, and endured for a long time the intense pain, many aches and extreme weakness that always attends this dread disease, including the terrible backache, after trying doctors' prescriptions and many other so-called cures, without gaining any benefit, I was finally persuaded to take Hunt's Remedy; and after using it a very short time, I find myself entirely relieved from the backache and other pains and better than all the other improvements in my general health, my Kidney Disease is cured. It affords me great pleasure to recommend Hunt's Remedy to all who may be suffering as I have been, as it is a safe and reliable medicine for Kidney Disease."

HONEST INDORSEMENT.

Mr. C. T. Melvin, of Providence, R. I., says:

"Believing, as I do, that an honest endorsement of all you claim for the virtues of Hunt's Remedy, I with pleasure attest to the fact that its action in restoring a healthy condition to diseased Kidneys and Liver is, in my case little less than miraculous."

So say we all of us,

One, two, three, four of us.

And so on up to thousands, that Hunt's Remedy is incomparably the best Kidney and Liver medicine known.
